STIMSON SAYS ENEMY AGENTS STAGED 'RAID'

Secretary of War Believes 15 Planes Operated Over Los Angeles.

USED SECRET AIRFIELDS

Official Indicates 'Silent Attack' Aimed at Baring Area Defenses.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Secretary of War Stimson today expressed the belief that the Los Angeles air raid alert was caused by at least 15 airplanes operated by enemy agents from undisclosed airports.

The secretary at a press conference said that the latest information reaching him was that the planes apparently had no intention of dropping bombs and probably came from commercial bases in this hemisphere.

The report read by Stimson stated that investigation has led to the "reasonable conclusion" that the planes "may have come from commercial sources operated by enemy agents."

Only yesterday Secretary of Navy Knox at a press conference had said that it was the navy's "understanding" that the Los Angeles alert was "just a false alarm."

Stimson today, however, said that the report before him indicated that the aim of the "silent raid" apparently was to create confusion, slow down production and disclose the location of anti-aircraft guns.

The secretary said his information was contained in a report from General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, and apparently was based on reports to Marshall from army officials in California.

"My only comment," Stimson said, "is that perhaps it is better to be, too alert than not alert enough."

Stimson said he had no explanation of the statement that neither army or navy planes were in action, and he did not explain what was meant by "commercial sources."

Stimson said the army's investigation of the incident was continuing.

Washington Has New Mystery In Air Raid 'Alert'

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Washington had a new "mystery" today as the result of an air raid "alert" which was flashed over the district police radio alarm system early this morning.

The police flashed the alert at 1:31 a. m. and the all clear at 1:46 a. m., but defense and army authorities declared that it was a "false alert."

Police officials first said that the warning came from air headquarters at Mitchel Field, L. I. When officers at Mitchel Field declared that no such warning had been sent out, the police then said that it came "from the army," and stated that no further information as to the source could be given out.

Col. Lemuel Bolles, civilian defense director for the district said the false alert might have been caused by a "mixup in radio signals."

Mr. Farmer—Important!

It is important that farmers join in the drive for conservation. Possibly you have a piece of farm equipment that you no longer use, and is going to waste setting in your field or barn. It is your duty to place that piece of equipment in the hands of a farmer who can use it. You can do this quickly—and at a profit. Run an ad under "Farm Equipment" in The News-Journal Want Ads. Crafton Blocks Locke Attempt To 'Accept His Resignation'

'Fire Me', Says Service Chief

Mayor Chooses Service Club Dinner Where He's a Guest to Act; Names Fred B. Wolff to Fill Post.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton today had apparently blocked an unusual maneuver by Mayor W. J. Locke to get him out of office.

While both Locke and Crafton were invited guests at a dinner meeting of the Lions club in the Mansfield-Leland hotel last night, Locke handed Crafton a sealed envelope.

In it was this brief statement:

"It is with deep regret that I accept your resignation as service-safety director of the city of Mansfield effective Feb. 28, 1942."

But Crafton, who denied he had ever submitted his resignation to Locke, today countered with a letter of his own, in which he said he was "forced to disregard" the mayor's letter, since he had not given formal notice of any intention to resign and said, in effect, that the mayor would have to fire him to get rid of him.

Until such time, Crafton wrote, "I consider myself as still being on the city payroll." He concluded his letter by asserting:

"The only way you can clarify this regrettable situation and dispense with my services on Feb. 28, 1942, is by giving me a letter of discharge. Until that time, I will consider myself the city's legal service director and will carry out the duties of my office."

To back him up, Crafton had a verbal opinion from City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner to the effect that if he desired, he could force the mayor to prefer charges against him and take the matter to court.

Wagner told Crafton that he could see only two ways in which Crafton could be removed from his office. One was by a formal resignation by Crafton and the other was by the filing of charges of inefficiency by the mayor. Unless either of these events takes place, according to Wagner, Crafton could continue at his work and collect his salary.

Meanwhile, Locke had announced that he had offered Crafton's job to Fred B. Wolff, operator of the Brunswick hotel and a (Continued on Page 8, Col. 1)

TWO KILLED IN AREA ACCIDENTS

Men Die In Traffic Mishaps Near Ashland, Bucyrus; Car Strikes Pole.

Death struck twice on highways in the Richland county area yesterday.

An Ashland county man was fatally injured when the car in which he was riding went out of control on U. S. route 42, six miles northeast of Ashland, and a Marion man was killed when struck by a truck in Bucyrus.

Charles L. Eberly, 78, of Polk, died enroute to Good Samaritan hospital at Ashland when a car driven by Lloyd G. Camp, 55, of Polk careened from the highway and struck a utility pole, Ashland county Sheriff Dale Hammond reported.

APPOINTS TWO

State Names Innes, Williams To Election Board.

C. A. Innes, Butler druggist, was appointed to the Richland county election board today to succeed Fred L. Bricker of Shelby, while George Williams, Shelby, was re-named for a fourth term on the board by Secretary of State John E. Sweeney.

Innes, a Democrat, will be the first board member from the southern half of the county in recent years. Bricker, also a Democrat, retired after serving two four-year terms. Williams is a Republican.

Both appointments were made on the recommendations of the county executive committees of the members' political parties. Other members of the election board are George C. Balliet, chairman, and Earl A. McFarland, both of Mansfield. The board has two Democrat and two Republican members.

REQUEST MURDER COUNT IN DEATH

Chicago Prosecutors Call for Indictment In Slaying.

CHICAGO — (AP) — Prosecutors asked the grand jury today to return a murder indictment against 17-year-old Clarence McDonald who, they said, confessed his fatal shooting of a girl friend in a movie theater balcony had been planned three days earlier.

"I was terribly jealous of her and afraid she'd never marry me," he told Prosecutor Wilbert Crowley and police seeking a motive for the killing of Dorothy Broz, 17, high school "All-American girl" and honor student, Tuesday afternoon.

"So I finally decided that if I couldn't have her I didn't want anyone else to have her," he declared.

Figures In 'Tug of War'

Here are the three principals in the almost fantastic developments over the tenure in office of Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton, shown at bottom. At top left, Mayor W. J. Locke, and at top right Fred Wolff, named today by Locke to succeed Crafton. Picture of Locke and Crafton were snapped last night as both were dinner guests of the Lions club at a meeting in the Mansfield-Leland hotel. It was at the dinner that Locke handed Crafton a letter saying he had "accepted" Crafton's "resignation." Denying he had resigned, and asserting he would ignore the mayor's action, Crafton today wrote the mayor that if he wanted to get rid of him he would have to discharge him.

BRITISH SAY ESCAPE SHIPS KNOCKED OUT

Assert Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Prinz Eugen Out of War For Long Time.

PLANES SPOT VESSELS

Two Reported In Docks, Third Believed Damaged By Torpedo Hit.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON — The 26,000-ton German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau and the 10,000-ton cruiser Prinz Augen appeared today, on the basis of official British announcements, to have been knocked out of the war for some time to come.

At the same time, the admiralty announced today that a British submarine had made a successful attack on an enemy convoy of three supply ships in the Mediterranean, obtaining three torpedio hits. Further details were not disclosed.

The two battleships which escaped from Brest, France, with the Prinz Eugen and ran a gauntlet of surface and aerial attack in Dover Strait and the entrance to the North Sea on Feb. 13, were severely damaged, it was said.

One now lies in dry dock at Kiel and the other in the dockyard at Wilhelmshaven. Their present whereabouts have been recorded by aerial reconnaissance, an official spokesman said.

The Prinz Euben—or at least a cruiser of her class—was successfully attacked by the British submarine Trident off the Norwegian coast on Feb. 23, an admiralty communique said. A torpedo hit was scored.

"It seems probable that the ship was the Prinz Eugen, in which case all the ships which escaped (Continued on Page 18, Col. 2)

N-J Carriers Help Raise $12,100,000 Defense Fund

Report Shows 794 Papers, Including News-Journal, Sell 121,000,000 Stamps of 10-Cent Denomination.

Mansfield News-Journal carrier boys have shared in the sale of more than $12,100,000 worth of defense saving stamps by carrier boys throughout the nation, it was revealed today by the U. S. treasury department.

In the brief five-week period they have been serving as agents for Uncle Sam, News-Journal carriers have sold $19,388.60 worth of the stamps and bonds. Approximately 190 News-Journal boys are selling stamps and bonds weekly as they deliver their papers to homes throughout the city and county area.

In New York today, Louis Livingston, of the treasury department, announced that 125,000 newsboys from 794 papers over the nation have sold 121,000,000 of the 10-cent defense stamps and are selling them at the rate of 13,000,000 a week.

The News-Journal carriers have become the biggest salesmen of defense stamps in Mansfield and Richland county since Jan. 17 when the carrier campaign got under way.

Members of The News-Journal circulation department staff pointed out that the carriers have started to sell stamps several weeks or months after the sales campaign was started by other newspapers and the boys have outstripped other salesmen in the five weeks the drive has been in progress.

News-Journal carriers are attempting to build their sales on purchases weekly by regular customers who agree to increase the amount of stamps they buy.

While the newsboys do not carry defense bonds with them, they are qualified to take orders for bonds and to deliver them to their customers, saving the purchaser a trip to a bank and waiting in line to complete their purchase.

WAVELL HURT

Stimson Reveals Commander Injured at Singapore.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Paying tribute to the bravery of Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, Secretary of War Stimson today disclosed that the commander-in-chief of United Nations forces in the southwest Pacific was injured in a plane crash at Singapore before that bastion fell.

Stimson said Wavell suffered a broken rib when his plane crashed while taking off under Japanese fire from a Singapore airport.

The secretary said that Wavell landed at Singapore under fire the day before it fell to the Japanese and took off a few hours later.

Work Stoppages Bring Demand For Killing of 40-Hour Week

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Work stoppages in war factories brought an angry demand in congress today for cancellation of the 40-hour week and of time-and-a-half for overtime.

Rep. Smith (D., Va.) asked the house to suspend 17 laws on the work week and overtime pay. His proposal was contained in an amendment to the second war powers' bill, slated for a vote before the day was out.

Smith said the laws were "handicapping our war effort." As examples, he cited 17,000 west coast workers in 250 plants who ignored government pleas to stay on the job on Washington's birthday, and 3,000 CIO shipbuilders at San Pedro, Calif., who refused to work longer than eight hours.

Lawmakers saw some hope for uninterrupted production in the new CIO-AFL agreement for working out problems of wages and manpower mobilization. The agreement was presented to President Roosevelt yesterday, but its terms were not disclosed.

In the senate, Senator Byrd, (D., Va.) yesterday demanded the removal of Secretary of Labor Perkins for "inefficiency, ineptness and incapacity to meet her duties," and called for a national labor policy now. He declared the labor secretary had "approved sit-down strikes" and displayed an incapacity rarely duplicated in history in such a high office.

DEADLINE NEAR

Enemy Aliens Have Two More Days To Register.

Enemy aliens in the Mansfield area must obtain identification certificates from postal authorities by 6 p. m. Saturday when the city postoffice closes or they will face heavy penalties.

This applies to aliens who registered in 1940 and are subject to the countries, Germany, Italy and Japan, now at war with the United States, according to G. H. Hoover, district secretary of the Mansfield district of the U. S. Civil Service commission.

Midnight Saturday is the deadline for registration of all enemy aliens and wilful failure to register will be punished by internment for the duration of the war, United States Attorney Don C. Miller told the quarterly police conference of the Federal Bureau of Investigation today.

Drives Advance Enemy Forces Back On Batan

Fighting Continues With Success for American-Filipino Troops Breaking Up Nipponese Preparations For All-Out Offensive.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's little army on Batan peninsula has forced advance Japanese units to withdraw "several kilometers" near Manila bay in a surprise thrust unleashed all along the 13-mile jungle battlefront, the war department announced today.

Striking back against the numerically vastly superior enemy after breaking three Japanese drives to a standstill, MacArthur's army of "eternal glory" was said to have captured a number of the Japanese advance positions in the lightning thrust.

The attack was "particularly successful" on the right flank of the American-Filipino defenders, presumably in the vicinity of the highway center of Pilar on Manila bay about 17 miles north of Corregidor fortress and the tip of Batan peninsula.

The communique said that in this sector "forward elements of the Japanese troops were forced to withdraw several kilometers" under the strong thrusts of MacArthur's men.

"Fighting is still in progress with continued local successes," the communique said, adding:

"However, the main positions of the enemy have not been penetrated."

There was nothing to indicate that MacArthur—outnumbered at least 10 to one in manpower and without fighter planes to challenge the Japanese dive-bombers—had undertaken any major attack.

Military observers believed that the thrust was intended to break up enemy preparations for an all-out offensive, aimed at knocking the American-Filipino forces off the island of Luzon and back upon Corregidor fortress.

The first of the American "feeler" thrusts were reported in MacArthur's dispatches Wednesday to the war department which said there were "sharp encounters between our patrols and the enemy all along the line in Batan."

Small American forces, it was said, then were "uniformly successful", in "aggressive local actions."

These thrusts broke three days of calm on the Batan battlefront, believed to have been due either to Japanese reorganization for an attempted "knockout" offensive or necessitated by the withdrawal of Japanese strength — particularly planes—to the East Indies battlefront nearly 2,000 miles to the southwest.

MacArthur reported that in addition to the successful attacks along the line in Luzon small bodies of American and Philippine troops are "continuing to harass the Japanese in guerilla fighting with considerable success" in northern and central Luzon.

PUNCHES: U. S. Subs Torpedo 4 Ships In Jap Invasion Fleet

(By Associated Press)

American submarines smashing at Japan's sea-borne invasion armies were officially reported today to have torpedoed two enemy transports, an auxiliary ship and a freighter, even as Washington naval quarters predicted Japan's defeat within a year at the present rate of sea losses.

A bulletin from Dutch East Indies headquarters announced the attacks occurred within the past 48 hours.

In addition, a Japanese warship, one of a squadron, was listed as "presumed" hit. The attacking United States submarine was forced to dive before it could observe the effect of its torpedo.

Amid these Allied counter-punches, the Japanese invaders appeared to have overrun most of lower Sumatra, across the 15-mile-wide Sundra strait from Java, and also advanced down the west coast of Dutch Borneo.

The new blows to Japan's sea power capped an official disclosure in Washington that since Dec. 10 a total of 74 Japanese ships had been sunk, seven more probably sunk and 33 damaged.

"They can't keep these losses up over a year with their building program," a naval spokesman said, adding that unless Japan could succeed in making this a "quick and fast war, she could not hope to win.

Despite fierce counter-blows by Allied planes, warships and submarines, official dispatches indicated that Japan was pressing her southward march of conquest with all-out fury and that "zero hour" was near in the battle for Java.

CLAMP: Russians Tightening Ring Around Nazi 16th Army

(By Associated Press)

Russian dispatches reported today that "the ring around the 16th German army is tightening" in the campaign of annihilation to rid the Staraya Russa area near Lake Ilmen of the invaders.

The Russians declared they had defeated reserves which the Germans were hurling into the flaming battle in an effort to prevent destruction of the smashed Nazi 16th army.

One of the reserve units said to have been beaten when it attempted to break through to aid the trapped troops was identified as the 56th regiment of the German fifth division.

Dispatches from the front said Russian fliers and anti-aircraft guns were breaking up attempts by the Germans to bring supplies into the Staraya Russa area by transport plane.

With three divisions officially declared to have been smashed and 12,000 men killed through initial operations, the army newspaper Red Star said several additional German garrisons were being wiped out of the strategic communications zone 140 miles below Leningrad.

Berlin military quarters said 14,000 Russians had been killed in fighting southwest of Lake Ilmen in the last four weeks and, while this period was more than twice the 10-day span of battle outlined by the Russians, Soviet dispatches told of fierce resistance (Continued on Page 22, Col. 5)

SHARK LIVERS BOOST INCOME OF FISHERMEN

Soupfin Prices Soar Due To the Rich Vitamin 'A' Content.

(By United Press)

PORTLAND, Ore.—Pacific Northwest fishermen who eked out a living with catches for the nation's tables for years, are making small fortunes selling soupfin shark livers, containing the most highly concentrated deposits of the vitamin A.

Prices for soupfin livers have zoomed from 65 cents to $9.20 a pound and were expected to go even higher. One boat load brought a price of $7,136 alone.

Fishermen believe the shutting off of Norwegian cod liver shipments, other European supply and exportation to Britain under the lend-lease program to be responsible for the boom.

Heated bidding sessions are taking place in Pacific markets with fishermen holding out for the highest possible price. One boat lost three days fishing attempting to sell its load.

The cry of fishermen is "Thar's gold in them thar gills," and they go back to sea after auctioning off their rich cargoes.

One fisherman was reported to have engaged armored trucks to haul his load of soupfin livers to a processing plant, several have taken out hi-jacking insurance. One load is worth several thousand dollars.

The liver of the soupfin is 50 to 100 times as rich in vitamin A as cod, the United States Bureau of Fisheries has disclosed.

A threat to fishermen, however, is the liver of the female soupfin which contains much lower vitamin content during certain periods of the year. One processing firm was reported to have lost $4,000 on one cargo of female livers.

Ed Johnson, a Puget Sound fisherman, thought he was rich when he brought in a 1,500 pound liver. The haul, however, turned out to be the liver of a basking shark, worth only that of a 10-pound soupfin shark liver.

Even the commercial raising of soupfins has been discussed at Wheeler, Ore.

The "get rich quick" boys add to profits from the livers of dogfish, which have risen from $7 to $100 a ton, skate and blueshark which stray into the nets.

Fishing gear has been revolutionized and fishermen are employing North Sea methods of gilnetting. A year ago they would go out to sea without thinking of such a net. Now they are successfully operating driving and suspended nets. Net manufacturers have been asked to create a web which will not rip from the terrific lashings of the soupfin. Fathometers have been installed to aid drag nets for bottom fishing.

A few small craft have become engaged in the bait business, dragging for sole fish, the preferred enticement, scrap fish black snapper, sea trout and other varieties.

PLASTIC PLANES WILL MAKE USE OF SUGAR CANE

Residue Called Bagasse Can Be Turned Into Material Nearly Hard as Iron.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
(Wide World Science Editor)

NEW ORLEANS — If plastic airplanes are produced, they are likely to be made mostly of sugar cane.

For two reasons: First, sugar cane plastic is nearly as strong as iron. Second, sugar cane is the most plentiful and cheapest of all present plastic sources.

This cane stuff, newest of commercial plastics, is made from bagasse, which is sugar cane after heavy rollers have pressed out the sweet juice. Bagasse is a straw colored fiber.

It is the only raw material of agriculture which costs nothing to gather or to produce. Sugar mills have to get rid of it. For decades they hauled it away. Later they used it as fuel. Recently it has been made into celotex.

But there is still enough left, in Louisiana's sugar bowl alone, to make more plastics than now are produced by all the American processes combined. Bagasse runs 6 to 7 tons to the acre, against two tons of rice straw, the next largest fiber crop.

The blond bagasse turns into an almost coal black plastic, smooth, shiny, forming dishes that can be bounced on the floor without breaking. It won't burn, but at 700 to 800 degrees farenheit will glow a dull red.

The Bagasse plastic now is used for war mainly in preformed electrical fittings. Studies are under way for making sugar cane gun stocks. Like standard plastics, the articles it can make run into thousands.

But at present priorities limit it mostly to war, for there are shortages of some of the chemicals used in plastics.

The original credit for the sugar cane product goes to the U. S. department of agriculture, whose by-products laboratory started the study of bagasse under Dr. D. F. Lynch at Iowa State university, Ames, Ia.

Dr. Lynch now is director of the new U. S. southern regional research laboratory. One of his former Ames assistants, T. R. McElhinney joined the staff of Valentine Sugars, Lockport, La., where with the company staff the work was carried to the industrial stage, and the first bagasse plastic mill erected.

Bagasse after chemical treatment is reduced to a powder resembling coarse sugar. To make plastic articles, the powder is poured into metal molds. The molds are heated to several hundred degrees, 300 pounds of pressure per square inch is turned on, and the cane flour turns momentarily into a liquid.

In less than one minute the liquid changes into an iron-hard, finished plastic article.

Technically, bagasse has an important advantage over many other plastics which use wood flour as part of their composition.

Possibilities of the cane plastic include auto bodies and boats up to 20 feet in length. There is a prospect of a cane plastic cheap enough to make doors and window casements that will not need painting. The new plastic takes countersunk metal plating in ornamental designs.

Other sugar companies are reported doing laboratory work on bagasse plastics. The prospects are so attractive that Maj. Meigs O. Frost, New Orleans writer, said it is possible cane sugar may become a by-product of a sugar cane plactics industry.

Defenders of the Caribbean

Commanders of the vital Caribbean defenses are shown at San Juan, Puerto Rico, planning strategy to guard the Panama Canal. Left to right, are Rear Admiral John H. Hoover, commander of the Caribbean naval coastal frontier; Lieut. Gen. Frank M. Andrews, chief of the Caribbean defense command, and Maj. Gen James L. Collins, in command of the Puerto Rican department.

FETED AT PARTY

GALION — Mrs. James M. Walters was honored with a handkerchief shower by members of the Tuesday Evening club when they met this week at the home of Miss Kathryn Carmel. Mrs. Walters, who has resigned from the nurses' staff of Galion City hospital, will leave Sunday to make her home in Augusta, Ga., where her husband is in military service.

High score prize in bridge was awarded to Mrs. Herbert T. Cobey. Patriotic appointments were used when the hostess served luncheon at small tables. Favors were miniature airplanes, in red and silver and blue and silver, with small American flags.

Collection Of Staffordshire Owned By College Student

(By International News Service)

URBANA—A rare collection of those delicate little Staffordshire china pin boxes, trinkets and figurines that grandma once prized so highly, has made Bill Houser, a junior at Miami university, the envy of experts the country over.

Bill, whose collection includes George Washington on his horse and General Grant similarly mounted, began his collection when he was six years old with a few pin boxes given him by his own grandmother.

There are hundreds of pieces in his collection. He has gathered them by prowling in antique shops and out of the way places the country over and has picked some of them up for a few cents.

He says he can't place any intrinsic value on his set, but that he would not sell it. With the exception of one Dresden piece, a doll, the entire collection is of the genuine but long since discontinued Staffordshire ware.

He has scores of beautifully finished little trinket boxes with delicate covers and some odd items like the old-time watchholders on which grandparents hung their watches when they went to bed at night so that they could easily see the time when they awoke.

Now that the collection is complete, Bill is looking for further opportunities to spread out and has started a collection of sparkling cut glass cup holders.

He doesn't figure on doing much with this collection while he is at Miami university this year, but will start on it in earnest next summer.

An Open Letter to Tire Thieves

Tire theft has risen to new heights.

This is not just petty larceny any more.

It is a direct stab-in-the-back at American transportation which is hand-in-hand with vital American production.

The tire thief today is not merely robbing some luckless motorist of his rubber

—he may be keeping a skilled bomber mechanic off the job for hours

—he may be putting a truck loaded with war materials off schedule

—he may be interrupting a vital link in a vital phase of war production.

For want of a tire the car was lost; for want of a car the man was lost; for want of a man the job was lost; for want of the job, the bomber was lost; for want of the bomber the battle was lost.

For a few paltry dollars, the tire thief is putting himself on the enemy's side.

He is as obnoxious as a fifth columnist, as despicable as a Benedict Arnold —for tire stealing today is sabotage just as surely as smashing the control panel on a battleship.

You, with the tire-snatching tools—before you plan your next job, will you look up at Old Glory flying so grandly in the breeze, needing every son on her side in her fight for life?

Will you help the U. S. A., or will you help sabotage the U. S. A.?

Perhaps even a greater morale breaker and sabotage agent is the person who receives stolen tires and property for resale. He is the incentive, the "fence," the cover, for the thief. And remember, Mr. Tire Thief, your "fence" makes the money—not you!

The bright spot is that the true American motorist will refuse to buy any tire or tires unless he can prove clear title to them—new tires or secondhand. The motorist who does rebuy "stolen" tires, knowingly or unknowingly, is an accessory to a crime of sabotage!

No 8-Hour Day for Soldiers

WHAT do MacArthur's soldiers, fighting in the Philippines, do at the end of an 8-hour day, or a 40-hour week—signal the Japs for an intermission, or keep right on fighting?

Or possibly they "walk off of the job" at the end of eight hours—like 3,500 members of the CIO Shipyard Workers Union of America did at San Pedro, Calif., a couple of days ago after refusing to work a 10-hour shift in producing destroyers for the U. S. navy.

Not likely, however, for those American boys battling against great odds on Batan peninsula, KNOW that the United States is in the war—and that they are engaged in a life-or-death struggle.

Maybe those workers on the West coast who quit at the end of eight hours have a just complaint, but wartime enemies can scarcely be expected to show high regard for established working hours recognized in this country, or to withhold attack until the whistle blows.

Among the high resolves for all Americans, in his Monday night address, President Roosevelt placed first: "We shall not stop work for a single day. If any dispute arises we shall keep on working while the dispute is solved by mediation, conciliation or arbitration—until the war is won."

Workers in some West coast war production plants demanded double pay for work on Monday's observance of Washington's birthday, necessitating a shut-down despite Donald Nelson's urgent appeal for full production on that day.

It is instances such as these, which show utter lack of appreciation of the enormity of America's war task, that are giving impetus to the "work or fight" legislation now being seriously considered by congress.

If there is to be "uninterrupted war production" a way must be found to keep men on war production jobs—longer than accustomed hours, if necessary—so that the nation's fighting forces can be supplied with the equipment necessary to defensive, and eventually offensive, action.

When it is considered that the work of about fifteen persons in civilian employment is required to supply the needs of one man in military service, the impossibility of permitting individual or group decision as to when to work and when not to work becomes better understood.

It may seem that this would be easy to understand on the West coast, now that an enemy submarine has shelled that area and the San Pedro district has been treated to anti-aircraft action—but possibly bombs must be dropped in Los Angeles or San Francisco before some people realize that winning the war is of more immediate importance than wages and hours.

Safeguarding Military Areas

TEMPORARY loss of some of the freedom to which people in the United States have been accustomed—citizens and aliens alike—will be one of the difficult readjustments of wartime.

By executive order, under wartime powers of the president, aliens have already been removed from some West coast sections and it has been made clear that the army is authorized to restrict or remove "any or all persons" within designated military areas.

For the present this is taken to apply only to Japanese residents of coastal states, the estimate being that there are 39,000 of these in California alone, with 60,000 other persons who might be affected by the order.

Subversive activity is now known to have made possible the accurate timing of the Pearl Harbor attack and the work of fifth columnists has become recognized as an important part of Axis technique in making ready for attack.

Efforts to safeguard "civil liberties" of everybody in the United States—native, naturalized and alien—led to policies of leaning over backward to make sure that even the most dangerous alien enemies were undisturbed in subversive activities during the period of preparation for entry into the war.

This was carried to the point of attempting to hamper the work of the Dies committee, an agency that has done valuable service in making a check-up of suspicious persons and gathering evidence of subversive activities.

Attacks have also been made on the work of the FBI, which has made a fine record in the past and is now performing a job of inestimable value in reducing the fifth column menace to the national war effort. Both the FBI and the Dies committee should have assurance of sufficient funds to do their respective jobs in the best possible way.

An Appreciation of China

AMERICANS lately are getting a new slant on what some wise fellow-countryman has called "ancient and honorable China." Her virtues have never shown more brightly than today, when she is struggling for her life under enormous handicaps. And it is remembered with humility that, while lacking nearly everything that modern nations think necessary for war, she alone has fought Japan successfully.

Let us think of this when we find ourselves slipping into the easy error of mistaking our loans to China as "charity." They are not that at all. They are sinews of war in a struggle as vital to us as it is to China herself. And a dollar may go as far in China, for purposes of Allied defense, as a hundred will go here.

More than that: "A fighting alliance with China," writes Henry R. Luce in Life magazine, "is absolutely vital for the necessity of winning this war. But when you look into the future of mankind, the Sino-American partnership takes on even grander importance. For on that partnership depends the peaceful and happy commerce between all the people of the West and all the people of the East."

It may be imagination, but there doesn't seem to be as much tire-squealing nowadays as youthful drivers turn corners. It is by "squealing" that a tire rebels against having its life needlessly shortened.

It appears that the "save paper" campaign has not yet been sufficiently publicized to reach the attention of amateur poets, who are turning out the customary early spring crop.

One Missourian puts it this way: "What the country needs is an air corps with its feet on the ground"—apparently getting all set to run for congress.

A western groom, seeking annulment of marriage, claims he was in a daze during the ceremony—but what's strange or unusual about that?

THE ENEMY'S ADVANTAGE

Talks Billions But Looks Ahead

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

DISCUSSING national economics at one of his press conferences the other day, Price Administrator Leon Henderson seemed to a reporter, who happened to be present, to be rather vague with the figures he mentioned. "About" or "approximately" so-and-so-much was the way he expressed himself. The scribe asked if the administrator did not consider this a trifle indefinite.

"Why, yes, it is," agreed Leon, "but I'm speaking only roughly now, in terms of billions."

That's a fair sample of financial conversation in Washington at present. Inquire of an emergency official how much something's going to cost and his reply's likely to be, "Oh, a few billions," which is considered reasonably exact.

Astronomers at the naval observatory, accustomed to reckoning distances, in light miles, between far-off suns and planets, tell me that it makes their brains reel to talk with up-to-date government arithmeticians, who calculate in near-infinities of dollars.

It's years since Uncle Sam's expenditures initially hit the $1,000,000,000 mark. Just one lone little billion Thomas B. Reed was speaker of the house of representatives at the time. Many folk felt that $1,000,000,000 annually was a terrific amount for Uncle Samuel to be spending. Newspapermen asked Czar Reed if he didn't think so, too. "No," said Tom, who had a proper appreciation of the United States' enormously and rapidly increasing magnitude. "This is a $1,000,000,000 country."

His remark shocked a lot of people.

Close to Limit.

Now our congressionally legalized maximum national debt limit, suggestive of the rate at which we've been spending during Czar Reed's era, is $65,000,000,000. According to Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau's latest report, however, we already are within a mere matter of $4,715,515,746 of 65 of 'em. Furthermore, I'm wondering if Henry's report didn't underestimate our outstanding obligations a trifle—if we're not a few cents farther in the hole than the $60,284,184,254 he refers to.

Anyway, he informs us, "In the not distant future I'll ask congress to boost the limit to $110,000,000,000, and then, perhaps, to remove it altogether."

Now, far be it from me to imply any doubt that the program outlined for us will work out otherwise than absolutely satisfactorily.

I cite figures simply because I think they're interesting.

Secretary Morgenthau says the outlook's o. k.—that we'll come out of this war in far better shape than we did the last time. His thesis is that, if we win, we'll still have all our original wealth and resources left with us, whereas, if the United Nations lose, it won't make any difference whether we owe nothing at all or owe a trillion. The argument is that, supposing the totalitarians are victorious, they'll take whatever we've got away from us. It sounds logical.

Can't Break Even.

All the same, a comparison—

The commerce department's record is that Americans' national income last year was close to $90,000,000,000.

It can't be much bigger than that next year. And our debt, as per Secretary Morgenthau, will be at least $20,000,000,000 more than that.

Henry Morgenthau is an optimistic chap. He's convinced, on general principles, that we'll come out of the war all right. Leon's hunch is that advance prevention's urgently necessary. He speaks casually in the language of approximate billions, but he reckons with 'em down to a copper cent, or percentage, as an ultimate proposition.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Sunday, Feb. 26, 1922.

Compensation checks were being received by World war veterans in Mansfield and vicinity and survey showed the money was being wisely spent.

Dr. John Maglott, city health commissioner, said there were 11 cases of scarlet fever in the city.

Dr. S. E. Fundley left for a several weeks' stay in Miami, Fla.

Mrs. Ada Hunter, 23 Wood street, was taken to General hospital for treatment.

Mrs. James Boswell and daughter, Margaret, 25 Ford street, left for an indefinite stay in Albuquerque, N. M.

Harry F. Bell, secretary of the Ohio State Bar association, returned from Washington, D. C., where he attended meeting of American Bar association.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, Feb. 26, 1937.

Fourteen thousand, eight hundred 1937 auto license plates arrived at Richland County Auto club offices.

John Rackenbaugh, 74, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John Pifer, Lincoln Heights.

Mansfield Telephone company announced a 25-cent monthly reduction in telephone rates on all classes of extension phones.

Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Wolford and sons, Richard and Thomas, returned from a month's vacation in Palm Beach, Fla.

Son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wallers, R. D. 2.

Timely Editorial

Hard-Working Soybean.

Some day we may not only eat the soybean but wear a suit made of soybean textile, ride in a car made with soybean plastic body, steer it with a soybean wheel while we watch our instrument panel fashioned with soybean plastics, take due care of scratching the shiny soybean enamel—and also ride on soybeans.

For soybeans are the latest promise of a source for synthetic rubber. Indeed, a Minneapolis milling firm has already produced a handful of soybean latex in the laboratory.

It was only in the late '20's that the soybean was being processed in this country in any amount. It had been imported from Manchuria, mostly as a stock feed. Now its meals and oils have hundreds of uses in food and industry. On the basis of its present price, it is said to give the Minnesota farmer the highest return per acre of any cash crop. We may any day doff our soybean hat—to the soybean.—Minneapolis Times.

Man About Manhattan

Ready for Raid

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—For 10 months now at 350 Fifth avenue they've been making very special plans for callers who may not even show up.

That's quite unusual, because 350 Fifth avenue is the Empire State building and callers are an everyday thing. The callers they're planning for, though, are Axis bad actors who drop calling cards from airplanes.

From the top of the world's tallest building, all the way down the 102 stories to the bottom, the Empire State is organized and ready for air raids.

THAT is, the building is as ready as any building can be for an air raid. As C. L. Brown, operating manager of the Empire State, points out:

"Every building has its own individual problems. Ours is simplified because we don't offer much of a target at the top. On the other hand, the top 16 stories of this building are practically all glass (the "mooring mast" tower that's a New York landmark) and that gives us a problem of our own."

Ever since May 14 building officials and tenants have been discussing, in an average of two meetings each week, possible procedure in the event of an air raid—the means of getting as many as 8,000 persons to the safest possible places. The result:

Every floor in the building has been organized, with one person designated as a chief monitor and with assistant monitors for every 16 persons.

Special equipment has been installed; sandbuckets, sandbags, portable fire-fighting gadgets, and such.

AS FOR taking care of persons in the building, the plan is quite simple.

Building officials have "suggested" (Brown explains that a building can't go ordering its tenants around even in times like these) that everyone on floors from the second to the eighteenth stay on those floors and go to the center of the building. Wide corridors provide ample space, he says.

Visitors to the tower will be brought from there by elevator, along with tenants above the 80th floor, to the 32nd and 18th floors where they are to remain during the raid.

Brown estimates that the 7,000 to 8,000 persons in the 2,000,000 feet of rentable space in the building can be handled in three or four minutes.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Committees Making Deeper Probe Into Synthetic Rubber Agreement

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—By an odd twist of fate, General MacArthur is getting supplies today from a man whose ambition to become assistant secretary of war nine years ago was squelched by MacArthur.

The man in question is Carroll Cone of Pan American Airways. Cone comes from Arkansas. So does MacArthur. When MacArthur was chief of staff, Cone was in Washington with the commerce department's aviation bureau, sought to become assistant secretary of war for air.

The job was vacant, and Cone had the support of the late Senator Joe Robinson of Arkansas and other potent figures. However, MacArthur sat on the idea. He wasn't keen about the air arm of the army at that time and abolished the job of an assistant secretary who would devote all his time to promoting the air corps.

For eight years the army was without an air executive—revived only a year ago when Secretary Stimson appointed Robert A. Lovett as assistant secretary of war for air.

Today, as a Pan American Airways official, it is Cone's job to transport supplies by a circuitous and secret route to the Batan peninsula. And they are getting there.

For years U. S. army war plans provided that in case of a Japanese attack on the Philippines, U. S. forces there would have to be abandoned. However, thanks to long range transport planes and Cone's efficiency, supplies are definitely reaching the Philippines.

Future King at Circus.

WHEN the circus came to town last week, one of the most excited fans was a ruddy-cheeked five-year-old youngster who may one day become a king. He was Harald of Norway, son of Crown Prince Olav and Princess Martha, and resident of Washington "for the duration."

When he got home from the circus, he made funny faces to show his sisters what the clown was like, and slid on the rugs to work up a spark to shock them with.

Harald is not being "trained for the kingship," but to be a normal, healthy boy. He will not be the next king of Norway, because it is his father who is crown prince. And if the Germans have their way, a new monarchy will be established and the present royal family dethroned.

Harald lives on a country estate ten miles out of Washington where the president sometimes has been a visitor. Known as "Pook's Hill," the home has recently been enlarged so that when the crown prince comes to visit the crown princess, there will be living quarters for the prince's aide-de-camp and his wife, the lady in waiting.

Note: Harald was five years old last week.

Secret Rubber Deal.

LITTLE by little, a highly significant and secret picture of the disastrous rubber shortage is leaking out from high places. It shows that although Federal Loan Czar Jones was woefully short-sighted, he isn't the only one to blame for the dearth of tires and the "Jesse Jones Walking Clubs" which have become Washington's latest fad.

Additional dynamite was unearthed by the Truman committee of the senate and the house military affairs committee last week which has congressional eyes popping. It showed the ramifications of the giant deal between Standard Oil of New Jersey and I. G. Farbenindustrie of Germany to ban the use in the United States of patents for a certain process of manufacturing synthetic rubber.

As a result of this arrangement, Goodyear Rubber and Dow Chemical, which approached Standard Oil for use of these patents in 1934, were turned down. They did not know at the time—nor did anyone else—of Standard Oil's deal.

Meanwhile, Hitler was building up a tremendous stockpile of synthetic rubber in preparation for future war against the United States.

The inside story of this giant international deal goes back to a few years after the last war when Standard Oil of New Jersey was about to go into the chemical field. Simultaneously I. G. Farbenindustrie planned to go into oil.

Dividing the World.

SO, fearing each other's competition, they agreed to divide the world between them. Standard Oil wanted to dominate the world's gasoline business, especially synthetic gasoline; while I. G. Farben wanted to dominate the chemical field, especially synthetic rubber.

So after some years of dickering, they formed a secret cartel in 1929, by which the German trust took over all chemical patents, including synthetic rubber, while Standard took over all of the oil patents, especially the patents on synthetic gasoline. One most important part of the agreement was that the Germans were permitted to make synthetic gasoline inside Germany, while Standard Oil was not permitted to make synthetic rubber inside the United States.

However, according to evidence placed before the senate and house committees, "The American cartel was so interested in relieving competition in their home market that they gave their home market away."

Evidence also has been unearthed showing that all of last summer and fall, when many people figured war with the Axis was just around the corner, Standard Oil continued to cooperate with the Germans to suppress the manufacture of synthetic rubber in the United States by these particular patents. Documents have even been found in Standard's files referring to "Hitler government," indicating that the "Hitler government" was opposed to the development of synthetic rubber here.

Whether this was because Hitler even then was scheming to cut off our natural rubber supplies from the Dutch East Indies, is not known.

Dividing After War.

WHAT is known, however, is that the two companies contemplated the possibility of war. For they wrote into their secret agreement the following provision:

"In the event the performance of these agreements or of any material provisions thereof by either party should be hereafter restrained . . . or be alienated to a substantial degree by operation of law or governmental authority, the parties should enter into new negotiations in the spirit of the present agreements, and endeavor to adapt their relations to the changed conditions which have so arisen."

Justice department experts, called to testify before the congressional committees, said they interpreted these "changed conditions" to mean war, and that Standard sought to dominate the synthetic gasoline market and I. G. Farben the synthetic rubber market after the war was over.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The Capital in Wartime:

The Red Cross says that since Pearl Harbor, more than 55,000 persons have donated to the nation's blood bank.

The following little item isn't intended to detract one bit from any one of those. They've done their bit and more. But among them is a little group that deserves special mention in my book. Here's why:

I have never known a member of congress to shy away from "helpful" publicity—that is, not until now. But up in the Capitol, the number of congressmen who have volunteered blood has reached such a level that Dr. G. W. Calver, congressional physician, has had to organize a Capitol branch of the blood bank. And one specific stipulation is that there is to be NO publicity about it.

Typical of the secrecy surrounding these donations is the case of Sen. Tom Connally, of Texas, 64 years old. The senator is no shrinking violet when it comes to getting his name on Page 1. But it was only by chance that it leaked out that he had been one of the first to get himself okayed. Today, if you ask him about his trip to the blood bank hospital, he'll tell you, "I don't know what you are talking about and besides don't you make out that contributing to the blood bank is a publicity stunt, because it isn't."

THE Interstate Commerce Commission has had its share of complaints, but in Washington, at least, it always has been known as one of the leaders in governmental economy. When the order went out that all agencies should conserve paper, ICC was the first to single-space and use both sides of the sheet.

The commission's latest economy touch is a beaut. Each day, a mailing clerk makes the rounds and picks up the orders for delivery to western clients. In each section, these number from 20 to 150 sheets and it has been customary to hand them to the clerk, rolled up, and held with a rubber band. Now, as the mail clerk receives them, the ICC clerk does a Houdini, slips off the rubber band and drops it back into the box for use again.

MAURY MAVERICK, the stormy petrel of Texas politics, one-time congressman and former mayor of San Antonio, has had a lot of offices in Washington and out, but I doubt if any of them can touch that 17-by-10 room he occupies in Temporary Building E (it was there in World War I), where his title is director of (state and municipal) government supplies.

If you know him well, he is sure to show you his "private kitchen." It consists of three drawers in the filing cabinet. One contains a set of pinkish dishes; another, an electric hot plate; and the third, some canned goods and staples.

Mrs. Maverick, he'll explain proudly, bustles in at lunch time; cooks up a meal for him and any business guests he may have; and washes the dishes down the hall in a cubby-hole sink.

A Farmer's Diary

Little Pictures

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

AROUND the farm, pleasant things often happen that are a relief from the severity of the average person's thoughts, nowadays. Against the dark background, they stand out clear, and all the sweeter because of their transience. Robert Frost has said it this way—

"I'm going out to clean the pasture spring;
I'll only stop to rake the leaves away
(And wait to watch the water clear, I may);
I shan't be gone long—You come too.

* * *

I'm going out to fetch the little calf
That's standing by the mother. It's so young
It totters when she licks it with her tongue.
I shan't be gone long. You come, too."

I AWOKE before dawn and heard the warm dashing patter of a springlike shower. At the same time I remembered that it was Sunday. I turned, stretched luxuriously, then listening to the whisper of the rain against the window, the dull beat of it upon the metal roof, I went contentedly off to sleep again.

SHORTLY after daylight, the second boy came pounding down the stairs and went outside. He came back in, and stopped beside my bed, his blue eyes bright from sleep, his round cheeks flushed and rosy.

"Oh, Daddy, it's spring! The birds are singin' fit to split and an ol' woodpecker is choppin' away, up on the hill. A king fisher was down by the pond, but he flew away when he saw me. Can't you and I take a good long walk today, and see the woods?"

"We will," I promised, for I knew just how he felt.

The six-year-old boy and the flop-eared black and white pup went with me up the hill. Boy and pup have things in common. Both are rough and tumble—both hunger for a man's love and companionship—both like to run with the wind in their ears, and turn somersaults in dry leaves. Both retrieve all sorts of peculiar things and bring them for identification. We had a fine time.

DRIVING with my wife, we stopped to watch a flock of ducks, along the Clearfork. They were diving and preening and splashing and bowing—a pretty sight upon the clear green water. When the show was over, their leader gave a call and two abreast, in a long undulating line, they waddled up into the farmer's barnyard. A few white feathers were left along the river's edge.

CHAPTER XIII

Stephen Larrabee was still a good-looking young man, obviously unaware of his good looks, who dressed meticuously and who was charmingly shy with Judith. While Max made her feel young and inexperienced, Stephen, by the self-consciousness he tried to hide along with his touchingly apparent wish to be liked, made her feel older and self-assured.

By his sweet agreeableness he misrepresented himself, she thought, dancing with him on the crowded floor of one of Clinton's few night clubs that Christmas night while Harriet and Larry, too exhausted to dance after a strenuous day with their children, sat at a table and pretended they were enjoying themselves.

For Stephen's sweet agreeableness masked the real Stephen who was ambitious and smart in business and unusually well informed on current affairs. Talking to Larry on the latter as they had ridden to the club, a conversation which temporarily excluded the sisters, Judith had found him a young man who could see an idea through to its destination, that he was intensely interested in the worlds of politics and business and that he was, strangely enough, rather a hard-bitten realist on the outcome of what was then called the international situation.

Larry had nodded his acquiescence and Harriet, impressed, had ceased to talk about her boys. To Judith it seemed a pity that Stephen Larrabee, when he was with a girl, preferred the comfortable role of the rubber-stamp

* * *

Frowning, Stephen glanced at his watch. "Have to keep your train time in mind," and glanced quickly down at her. "Not that I want you to go . . . I wish you didn't live so far away I was in New York a couple of weeks ago and I got as far as looking you up in the telephone directory. But I thought probably you were busy and—"

"And what did you do instead of calling me?"

He laughed. "I walked from my hotel to Times Square and somehow lost my sense of direction and had to ask a cop how to get back to my hotel . . ."

"Was that all?"

"All. I had to have a clear head for Philadelphia the next day." Then he said, "Here goes my elbow out so that some of these dopes will run into it instead of you . . ."

"I ride on the subway, remember."

"And Clinton is a small, one-horse town to you, isn't it? You wouldn't ever be satisfied to live here again, would you?"

"I doubt it I—I don't know where I'm going from New York, Stephen." Wherever Max goes if that's the end of the world. "My hat is jabbing your chin."

"I don't mind."

"But I do. Let's go back to the table."

The station in Clinton was old and drab and cold A few nondescript persons waited patiently and silently for the train that would arrive with the next minute, their weary eyes turning occasionally to the four young people, their ears gladly picking up their youthful talk and laughter.

"Come home soon," Harriet said. Her voice was hoarse, her eye-lids heavy as she stood shivering in the thin black cloth coat that had not stretched with her maturing figure. The veil of her small, made-over hat was awry. "See what you can do about bringing her home more often, Steve. You're on our side, aren't you?"

"Now you've put me on the spot." He towered above the others, the color rising in his smooth cheeks. But his eyes were for Judith alone, seeing no fault in the slim-clad figure and the smart little black hat that had jabbed him uncomfortably in the chin while they had danced.

Larry, very solicitous after his angry outburst of last night, said, "Thanks for the swell gifts, Judith. Gosh, the children were crazy about theirs."

Outside beside the tracks she embraced Harriet and Larry, and when she turned to Stephen, Larry said, "Haven't you a kiss for him, too?"

Why not? She felt reckless, festive, happy, thinking of Max. As the train stopped and the nondescript persons went toward it, she turned, smiling, to Stephen. But his arms inside his great brown coat did not receive her. They took her with strength and with eagerness The kiss was his also, brief, hard on her mouth, a little awkward. A moment, only a moment while Harriet and Larry laughed and she pulled herself away from that strong, possessive embrace and ran.

How silly, how perfectly absurd, kissing Stephen Larrabee good-bye . . . She thought, "He kissed me. He didn't want me to go. He's sweet. Another Christmas . . . Where shall I be next Christmas? With Max . . . Oh, I'm so happy and fortunate"

Emily had not come home. No doubt she had stayed in Connecticut and would go directly to the office this morning without first coming home. Judith went quickly about the business of unpacking her bag, taking a shower, preparing breakfast and making plans for the week. Would there be a letter from Max when she came home tonight? Would he say when he was returning? The office, her office, would be hectic after the Christmas mess. But the cruise season would begin soon and it would be a relief to draw slim, abbreviated bathing suits and tailored slack suits after months of afternoon frocks

The ringing of the telephone took her quickly to the bedroom Max? The phone had not rung since a night in October that she had not first asked herself if it could be he.

"Judith?" It was Tim.

"Yes, Tim . . ."

"Lord, I'm glad you're back. I hate to shock you—but Emily's in the hospital. We rushed her in last night and they operated immediately. Appendix. I've been here all night. She's asleep Still knocked out, in fact. The doctor said it was a pretty nasty case. Poor kid. She was a lot more worried about breaking up the family party than about herself. But she was awfully game. There's nothing you can do. She has a special, but if you could come up on your lunch hour, maybe she'll be awake by then."

Judith felt genuinely shocked and unnerved as a score of thoughts flew through her mind. Emily's mother must be notified. . . . How loyal Tim was to a girl who had never wanted to give him a moment's concern! She saw them riding through the night. Emily brave despite the pain, perhaps joking, but all the while suffering a mental anguish greater than her physical pain because she had disrupted a Stevens' family party . . . And Emily had no money, she was certain. Emily, always thrifty until she met Tim, had had to buy too many dresses and hats.

"I'll go at noon, of course, Tim. I'm awfully glad you were with her when it happened. I'll wire her mother . . . call her office."

"Thanks. I'm leaving now. I've got to grab some breakfast and a shave and get some sleep." He gave a brief chuckle. "I think I know what it means to be a father now. You know, pacing up and down the hospital corridor. . . . Don't worry. She'll be okay"

"I'll take charge. I'll call Phyllis, too Good-bye, Tim"

Phyllis' phone rang several minutes before she said a lazy, scarcely audible, "Hello . . ."

Judith told her quickly.

Phyllis yawned. "Oh, isn't it dreadful! Poor Emily."

"I'd like you to stay with her today, Phyllis."

"Today? Oh, Judith, I can't! I—I don't see how I possibly can. Not today! I'd love to but . . . I'll go tomorrow."

Why couldn't she go today? What was more important than Emily's knowing she was not alone?

"Ames and I will go tonight, Judith."

"All right. Tonight then."

"I'll send her some flowers."

"Not yet. She's too sick to notice them. Good-bye, Phyllis." She put down the phone vigorously. Phyllis couldn't be bothered! How Emily would hurry to her under similar circumstances! But what now for Emily and Tim?

Emily could not give love and laughter and dance in expensive clothes she had not paid for now. What now when Tim, spoiled, restless, must be the "giver" to a pale, large-eyed girl confined to a hospital bed?

Blame Hitler, Hirohito, and Benito!

. . . Don't Blame Your Grocer!

AS YOU KNOW, our Government is rationing tin beginning March 1st.

So that means for a time—after present warehouse stocks are exhausted—some of the famous Heinz "57" Varieties will not be available in their familiar tin containers. However, stocks are large enough so that your "57" favorites will probably be on most grocers' shelves for several months at least . . . and after that we have every confidence they'll still be there—but newly packaged.

However, if there should be a period when a few are missing, don't blame your grocer! And don't blame your Government!

Pin full responsibility on Hitler, Hirohito and Benito—and be glad that less tin for us means more bullets and shells for America's guns!

After all, there's no need to fear a shortage of essential foods. America's reserves and resources are too great for that. Unlike most warring nations, we must sacrifice temporarily only our modern, convenient way of enjoying some of the things we like to eat.

For instance, most of the famous "57" Varieties of Heinz quality foods are not affected. There will be no scarcity of the Heinz Baby Foods that are helping the busy mothers give their children the wholesome, nutritious foods young bodies need. Heinz Tomato Juice . . . Heinz Ketchup and Chili Sauce, Pickles, Relishes, Vinegars, Jellies, Peanut Butter, Apple Butter—all these and many more of the "57" are ready to help you keep right on setting the finest table in the world.

What about the future?

Progress due to research helps us face it with confidence. Our Research Laboratories have expanded steadily, until now they have twice the personnel and equipment they had during World War I. And because we have been working constantly on the development of new packages, new products and new methods, this crisis does not find us unprepared!

The House of Heinz steadfastly adheres to its established principle of maintaining, and endeavoring to improve, the high quality of its products.

Now or years from now, when you see the Heinz keystone label you can be sure that it guarantees wholesome, delicious foods of finest quality. That has been true for more than 73 years and will always be true.

Until all this is over and we can go about our daily work in peace and security, we know you will cooperate with your grocer and with your Government in the biggest job of all—winning the war!

SOCIETY & CLUBS

CLUB HONORS MEMBER WITH BIRTHDAY GIFT

Mrs. Mary Thornberry, 91 This Week, Is Active In Conversational Study Club; Hostess For Meeting.

MRS. MARY THORNBERRY, active 91-year-old member of Conversational club, responded to the club's toast and birthday gift of two dozen roses with a poem of her own composition at the meeting held yesterday afternoon at the Women's Club. Her tribute to the group was the following:

"There is a club in town
That's known as Conversational.
It never seeks renown
Or anything sensational.

It aims to take a part
In literature and art
Or anything in research
On which it may converse.

Sometimes it talks on travel;
Sometimes a book review.
Sometimes it's only gabble
And nothing very new.

What e'er one's point of view
The fact is ever true
The best I ever knew
Is your club, my club too."

Attending the meetings of both the Conversational and Round Table study clubs regardless of the weather, Mrs. Thornberry contributes a great deal in thought and interest to the groups. She is also a member of the Women's Club and was hostess for the meeting held there Wednesday. She was assisted by her sister, Mrs. W. J. Tappan.

Miss Elizabeth Smurr, only charter member of the 27-year-old club, and Mrs. Fannie Carrier presided at the beautifully appointed tea table. Pink carnations were arranged in a blue bowl. Eight lighted, tall cream tapers completed the decorations. Guests for the program, tea and birthday party were Mrs. M. C. Burnell, of Columbus, house guest and niece of Mrs. Carrier, Mrs. A. L. Linder and Mrs. Elred Morton.

Mrs. James H. Boyd, jr., president of the club, conducted a short business meeting and in the absence of the chairman, Mrs. L. L. Kochenderfer, announced the program. Mrs. P. B. Dietrichson presented the concluding paper in the "Study for Better Understanding of Latin America," in which the club has been engaged since the first of the year. Her subject was "Pan-American Friendship."

Taking much of her material from John Gunther's book, "Inside Latin America," Mrs. Dietrichson sketched the history of relationships between the two Americas through friendly, unfriendly and back to Good Neighbor policies. Previous papers in the club's study were "Map Study and Historical Background," by Mrs. Lee D. Twitchell; "Sailing Around the West Indies," a travel talk by Miss Bertha Patterson, guest speaker; and "Culture and Education in Latin America," by Mrs. Merritt Giles.

A guest luncheon will be held on March 11. Mrs. Walter Willis will be hostess at the Women's Club. Mrs. George W. Hall will entertain with a musicale.

THESAURIANS MEET.

When members of the Thesaurians club met Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. John Workman on Maple street, they spent the evening sewing for the Red Cross. Refreshments were served by the hostess. Next meeting will be held March 3 at the home of Mrs. Robert Schiska on Bartley avenue.

Executive Board Of B. and P. W. Holds Meeting

Members of the executive board of the Mansfield Business and Professional Women's club held a meeting Wednesday evening at the Evergreen's. Mary Elizabeth Gruber, president, conducted the meeting. Nineteen members were in attendance. Reports were given by the secretary, treasurer and standing committee chairman.

Plans were made for the 18th birthday dinner and guest night party to be held March 11 at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Mrs. Rose Cherry of Sandusky will give a lecture-recital. Members of the glee club will also present several numbers. Celia Brumbach will launch a campaign for members to purchase defense stamps. Dinner will be served at 7 p. m.

In charge of the program for the dinner will be Marie Weil, chairman, Martha McFarland, Christine Fernyak, Eleanor Smith, Carrie Willet and Lois MacKeller. Members of the hospitality committee for the party are Bertha Reinewald, chairman, Emma Reinewald, Margaret Parker, Teresa Peiffer and Ruth Wiseman.

Miss Katherine Riggs, chairman of the health and recreation committee, announced that a hike is being planned for March 22. A guest night party will be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel on April 8. Mrs. Harold Andrews of Ashland will be the guest speaker.

Dorothy Bacon, William Flinn To Wed March 7

The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Dorothy Ann Bacon and William Flinn, son of Mrs. Earl D. Flinn, 515 Summit street, was announced today by the bride-elect's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Kent Bacon, 123 Glenwood boulevard.

Although the nuptials originally had been planned for April the date was changed to Saturday morning, March 7, in view of the possibility that Mr. Flinn will soon be in the service.

The wedding will be solemnized at the Bacon home and will be an informal family affair. A breakfast will follow the ceremony.

Both Miss Bacon and Mr. Flinn are with the Tappan Stove company. Miss Bacon, who has taken nurses' training at Mt. Sinai hospital in Cleveland, is with the credit union and payroll department. Mr. Flinn is in the sales department.

ENTERTAINS CLUB

CRESTLINE—Mrs. C. A. Cowgill presided for the business session of the Triple Seven club at a meeting at the home of Mrs. Harold Curren. Mrs. Anna Barber and Dorothy Barber were associate hostesses.

Navy Mothers Club Members Hold Meeting

Navy Mothers club members held a meeting Wednesday evening at the American Legion home. Thirty members and five guests, Mrs. Pearl Perrine, Mrs. Mary Dinges, Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Grant Ward, and Mrs. Julia Kiene, were in attendance. Five new members were welcomed into the club. They are Mrs. Berl Zimmerman, Mrs. Anna Thoma, Mrs. Kathryn Moleski, Mrs. Frances West, and Mrs. Z. Rube.

The meeting was opened with the pledge to the flag, group singing and the roll call. Mrs. Mary Smith, secretary, read a report. Mrs. Katherine Sattler, treasurer, also read a report. Mrs. Florence Blunk, Mrs. Ada Rumery, Mrs. May Smith, Mrs. Katherine Sattler, Mrs. Pearl Dawson and Mrs. Reele were appointed delegates to a meeting to be held in Kansas City, Mo., in April.

Mrs. Ward and Mrs. Kiene gave short talks. Mrs. Smith read a poem dedicated to the boys in the navy which was written by her mother. Anyone interested in becoming a member of the organization should contact the club commander, Mrs. Florence Blunk, 103 West Fourth street, or call her at 4034-6.

Letter Carriers' Auxiliary Plans Special Dinner

Ten members of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Letter Carriers' association and one new member, Mrs. Lowell Christman, were present for a meeting at the home of Mrs. Frank Winters Tuesday evening. Plans were made to have an anniversary dinner for all letter carriers and their families at North Lake park pavilion on March 24.

Mrs. Jack Breyman and Mrs. Christman will be in charge of the program. Table committee is composed of Mrs. Roscoe Traxler and Mrs. Harry Eyerly. Mrs. D. G. Schooley and Mrs. Frank Frisch are on the coffee committee.

Prizes were won by Mrs. George Hoover, Mrs. Breyman, Mrs. Frisch, Mrs. Roy Myers and Mrs. Foster Ost at this week's meeting.

Spinster Dinner Given Wednesday For Bride-Elect

Miss Marjorie Crowl, bride-elect of Arent Sjursen, was honored with a spinster dinner Wednesday evening at the Staiger tea room by Miss Corrinne Laser and Miss Marjorie Schmidt. Dinner was served at a long table attractively decorated with flowers and lighted tapers. Ten guests were in attendance.

The guests presented the honoree with a personal gift and a corage. The evening was spent socially. Miss Crowl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Crowl, Dawson avenue, will become the bride of Mr. Sjursen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arent Sjursen, sr., of Key West, Fla., in an outdoor wedding at the Sjursen home on March 7.

Honored by Club Members

Mrs. Mary Thornberry, who is celebrating her 91st birthday this week, was presented with a large bouquet of roses when she entertained members of the Conversational club at the Women's Club, Wednesday afternoon. In response to the gift and a toast given to her, Mrs. Thornberry recited a poem of her own composition. Regardless of weather, she takes an active part in meetings of the Conversational and Round Table Study clubs. She is also a member of the Women's Club.

Margie Jeanne White Weds Harry Swimley

On the evening of Jan. 31 in Napolean Miss Margie Jeanne White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. White, 34 Grasmere avenue, exchanged nuptial vows with Harry C. Swimley, jr., of Camp Polk, La., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Swimley, 196 Vale avenue. Justice of the Peace G. E. Rafferty, performed the ceremony.

For her wedding the former Miss White wore a black taffeta street length frock with black and white accessories. Her only jewelry was a gold locket, a gift of the bridegroom, and she wore a shoulder corsage of white roses and sweetpeas. Miss Mary Jane McCarty served as maid-of-honor. She was attired in a black velveteen street length frock with white accessories and wore a single strand of pearls. Her shoulder corsage was of red rose buds. Charles Bates was Mr. Swimley's best man.

Members of the wedding party were honored with a dinner party Feb. 1 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. McCarty, Western avenue. Dinner was served at a long table decorated with lighted tapers and flowers and centered with a cake. Mrs. Swimley was graduated from Mansfield Senior high school and has been employed at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company. Mr. Swimley was also graduated from Mansfield and was employed at the American News company before leaving for service in the U. S. army. He is now stationed at Camp Polk, La.

MRS. HARRY SWIMLEY

The bride is residing with her parents.

KNOTTY CLUB.

Dinner was served at 6:30 p. m. when Mrs. Bryan Snyder entertained members of the Knotty club Tuesday at her home, 325 Marion avenue. Mrs. Kenneth Daugherty was welcomed as a guest. Recipients of prizes in five hundred were Mrs. Harry Roberts, Mrs. Woodrow Garner, Mrs. Guy Weirick and Mrs. Daugherty. Mrs. Ralph White, 34 Grasmere avenue, will be hostess to the club on March 10.

Mrs. Reynolds Gives Review For Study Club

"Kennebec, Cradle of Americans," by Robert Tristam Coffin, was the subject of a very interesting review given by Mrs. Alfred Reynolds for members of the Wednesday Study club at the home of Mrs. Louis Lamoreux yesterday afternoon. This was the first in the "Rivers of America" series for the club programs.

Iris, acacia and daffodils formed the lovely centerpiece for the table. Tea was served by Mrs. Louis Bromfield and Mrs. George Draffan. On March 11, the club will meet with Mrs. Philip Corey, 808 Park avenue west. Mrs. David Roller's subject will be "Brandywine."

Sorority Gives Party Proceeds To Red Cross

Entire proceeds from the benefit bridge party given last evening by Sigma Kappa Gamma sorority at the American Legion home will go to the Red Cross. Forty-five tables were in play. Defense stamps and books were awarded as table prizes.

Door prizes were donated by the following merchants: Fourth Street Barber Shop, Burgess Cleaners, Madison theater, Ohio theater, Scattergoods, Campbell's Texaco filling station, Fox Jewelry store, Park grocery, Martin Hardware store, Ritter's, Lautsbaugh's Pharmacy, Grant's, The Vogue, Myrna Beauty Shop, Ven-Mar Drug Store, Davis market, Neisner Brothers' store, Kresge's, Muir's, Maxwell's department store, Leed's drug store, Quality Food market and Kevey's clothing store.

Next business meeting will be held with Miss Anita Stebelton, 89 Home avenue, as hostess. Officers will be elected at that time.

Social Meeting Held by Class

Mrs. Lavergne Lutz, 26 West Arch street, was hostess Tuesday evening for a meeting of the Ruth Circle class of the First Christian church. Twelve members and two guests were in attendance. Associate hostesses were Mrs. E. P. Cook and Mrs. Lloyd Armstrong.

Mrs. Fink, president, conducted the business session. Contests were played and prizes won by Mrs. E. P. Cook, Mrs. Cleo Buchter, Mrs. Armstrong and Mrs. John Fink. The next meeting of the class will be held March 24 at the home of Mrs. Chester Robinson.

STAFF ASSISTANCE GRADUATES HONORED

Tea Given at Shafer Home for Members of First Class In County to Finish Red Cross Course.

TWENTY-TWO WOMEN in the first Red Cross staff assistance class in Richland county to complete its training course, were guests at a tea given Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Shafer, 771 Woodhill road. Assisting on the committee were Mrs. L. H. Them and Mrs. O. H. Schettler. Mrs. William Layton is chairman of the group.

Verses written by Richard Sutherland about each member of the class were read by Mrs. Layton. Miss Lenore Van Gundia presented the theme she had written about the Red Cross. In behalf of the class, Mrs. Schettler presented a gift of appreciation to Miss Van Gundia.

Appropriate and attractive centerpiece for the tea table was a floral replica of the staff assistance pin. Carnations formed the red cross which was surrounded by white sweet peas. The design was bordered with yellow acacia. Miss Van Gundia presided at the table.

Recipients of the certificates, presentation of which was made by Mrs. Leopold Adams, also one of the graduates, were the following: Miss Ruth Aderman, Mrs. Fenner Baker, Mrs. William Bishop, Mrs. Donald Black, Mrs. Tom Ford, Mrs. Milo Hieber, Mrs. Norman Kann, Mrs. Layton, Mrs. Jean Marvison, Mrs. Clyde Mayer, Mrs. Frank Maxwell, Mrs. Albert Meihack, Mrs. L. High Style Fashions, Fancy Work

By MARIAN MARTIN

Whether you're a busy mother or successful career woman, you need one basic, figure-slimming frock like this from Pattern 9778. You'll find it quick to don and launder too, with its comfortable front buttoning that makes flat-spread ironing easy. Attractive details are the contrast collar and sleeve bands . . . the decorative darts that give the bodice fullness. If this frock will be your day-to-day "uniform"for all activities, try durable "R.A.F. Blue" cotton broadcloth. For more formal wear try a rayon crepe or wool, and make the dress all of one fabric with three-quarter or long sleeves. Let the Sew Chart help.

Pattern 9778 may be ordered only in women' s sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards 35 inch fabric and ⅞ yard contrast.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Ah!" My father drew a long breath at my reference to Queen Olga. "Did she make any comment?"

"The messages meant something to her," I told him. "I could see that. In fact she admitted as much, and tacitly agreed with me that Olma saw something in the painting which she was not voicing at present.

"Olga said that she must delve into her memories, and that as soon as she could she would tell me about it, but that it was not her secret."

"No, I should say that it distinctly was not," my father said dryly, and when I looked at him I realized that he shared the fantastic conjecture as to the identity of the author of the cryptic "fan letter," which had been in the back of my brain.

Knows Sender of Painting.

"You mean, you know—" I gasped.

"And so do you," he said. "There is but one person in the world who could have devised this message. But let us not utter the name yet, even between ourselves."

He put the letter and painting into my hands again.

"Guard these carefully," he said, "although they have served their purpose. Now about this newspaper personal of which the writer speaks. As soon as that personal comes in the mail, I wish to see it. I may wish to use it myself as a decoy.

"If I am not mistaken as to the identity of the writer of this letter," he said, "and I do not think I am, he has been the subject of much anxious search in this and other countries for some time.

"I need not tell you," he went on, "that the writer of this screed is in very real danger. Only the strongest of motives could have made him write this letter, with the chance of its falling into the wrong hands."

"Such as Stephen Redfield's."

"Such as Stephen Redfield's," he agreed. "But—as I understand it—Redfield only studied the letter. He has no idea of the hidden messages in the painting."

"No, he only had it in his hands for a minute or two," I said. "We promised to make a copy of it for him, but you may be very sure the copy will contain no clues."

"Good!" my father commented. "You would better select some innocuous song and copy it in reverse, instead of the Loch Lomond strains."

"Thank you, I'll do that," I told him.

"Then that is settled," he said. "But please keep in mind that I wish to see that personal the moment it arrives. Would you mind going over and telling Olga and Olma that right now? Then there will be no mistake about it. But hurry back, please."

I did not need that injunction, I told myself. My curiosity was roused to the fever point about the motor journey which he had proposed that I take.

The Veritzen suite, the finest in the hotel, is in a wing by itself. As I approached it I saw to my surprise that the outer door to the private hall was slightly ajar, and Olma's voice, agitated almost to the point of hysteria, came clearly to my ears.

"Oh, Mama," she was pleading, "do say you think I'm right in feeling that he wrote this."

"The Authority on Authorities"

PLEASE DON'T RETURN IT

WHEN I LEAD a small card of some unbid suit against a suit contract, and you, my partner, win it with the ace, please, oh, please do not return that suit. That is, unless you think I have led a singleton and want to ruff. At all other times, please bear in mind that I do not make a practice of leading away from tenaces and guarded honors against a suit contract. So whatever things I possess of that nature are in the other suits, and I want you to lead them to me. It is just the reverse of No Trumps, in which I will cheerfully underlead honors in order to start a long suit.

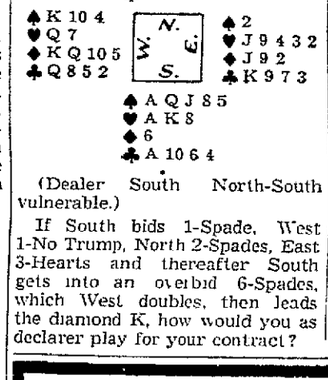
Bad defense gave the spade declarer his contract. To avoid leading from his tenaces, West opened the diamond 8 to the A and East returned the diamond 10. South won, dropped trumps, took his own other diamond honor, went to dummy with a trump, discarded a club on the diamond J, gave up a heart and a club, ruffed a heart and made game easily.

If East had properly returned his club 2 to the second trick, West would have had two immediate tricks in that suit, and the later heart trick sure to be taken would have been the setter.

Where the No Trump game was tried, West led his club 4. South won and led a diamond, which East got with the A. He properly returned a club and three tricks there held the declarer to exactly game. If he had returned anything else, an extra trick would have been scored, with five in spades, three in diamonds and one each in hearts and clubs. Of course, if West had led the top of his diamonds to the A and East had switched—but that is another story, as East could have read the diamond 8 as top of nothing and should have switched to a club, especially seeing four diamonds to J in dummy.

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer South North-South vulnerable.)

If South bids 1-Spade, West 1-No Trump, North 2-Spades, East 3-Hearts and thereafter South gets into an overbid 6-Spades, which West doubles, then leads the diamond K, how would you as declarer play for your contract?

CRAFTON BLOCKS LOCKE MOVE ON 'RESIGNATION'

Tells Mayor He'll Have To Oust Him; Wolff Named To Take Over Service Post.

member of the city's tire and automobile rationing board, and that Wolff had accepted the appointment "when the office is open."

The mayor said that Wolff would be on the job on Monday but Wolff was not so certain about it. He said that he would accept the position only "if the mayor has handled his end of it."

Asked to explain this, Wolff said that he could not accept the post unless there is a vacancy.

"He can't have two directors, you know," said Wolff.

Wolff, who served as service director four years from 1926 through 1929 under Mayor J. Earle Ports and Mayor Arliss F. Porter, said that he would accept the job only with the understanding that the post is "open."

Some members of the Lions club, which invited both Locke and Crafton as dinner guests, expressed surprise, amazement and even some resentment that the mayor had injected a political note into the meeting which had been to honor Mansfield's blind and to present them with white canes to help protect them in traffic.

It was not until after the club meeting was over that the majority of its members realized what was going on.

Then there were scattered comments of surprise and even some resentment over the fact that Locke had chosen a meeting at which he was a guest to transact controversial city business. One remark overhead was that "it seems a strange time and place for something like that to happen."

Also surprised was Crafton.

"I didn't believe that I would get such a letter at a social function at which we were both guests, and especially at a gathering assembled to honor some of Mansfield's unfortunates, those who are blind," Crafton said.

"There have been numerous opportunities for him to get the letter to me. After all, we have offices in the same building, on the same floor, and, in fact, there is only a reception room separating our offices. We are there every day and see each other every day.

Crafton said he had no opportunity to talk to the mayor when he was handed the letter last night.

"I had gone down to the lobby to make a telephone call and while I was returning to the hotel ball room the mayor came out and met me at the head of the stairs.

"He called me aside in the corridor and handed me the letter.

"He (the mayor) said I wish you would think this over," and then walked back into the ballroom where the meeting was under way."

During the dinner, Locke kept the envelope beside his plate, fingering it from time to time, but made no effort to hand it to Crafton until he met him in the corridor.

Crafton did not open the envelope at the moment Locke handed it to him, but he left the room again about 10 minutes later and learned that his "resignation" had been "accepted."

He returned to the ballroom, without comment to Locke, and soon afterward the speaking program began. Locke spoke briefly at the invitation of Adjt. Paul A. Hoffman of the Salvation Army, who was in charge of the meeting.

Locke left the meeting soon after, while George Campbell, featured speaker of the session, was giving his talk. Campbell, who had been blind for 18 years, regained his sight through a series of operations. Crafton remained until the meeting was over.

Events in the controversy began moving toward the climax they reached this morning yesterday afternoon.

Locke called Ralph Hardy, chairman of the Republican executive committee, yesterday afternoon and advised him that he planned to name Wolff to the service director's post, and asked if that would be agreeable to the chairman.

Hardy said it would, explaining that he assumed Locke had "worked out" his difficulties with Crafton.

Later in the afternoon, he told News-Journal reporters that he had his letter of "acceptance" of Crafton's purported resignation in his pocket, and had gone to the latter's office to give it to him. However, he said, Crafton was not in his office, and the mayor said he would see him in the evening at the Lions meeting, and would give it to him there.

City hall, of course, was agog over the situation this morning. Principal question was "What will Crafton do?"

His letter to the mayor was the answer—and he said flatly that he wouldn't recognize the mayor's acceptance of a resignation he insisted he had never made.

One Republican councilman, who was in City building, said he couldn't "figure out why Locke wanted to get rid of a man he had reappointed only two months ago."

The full text of Crafton's letter to the mayor follows:

"In regard to your letter of February 25th in which you say that you have accepted my 'resignation,' I beg to state that I am forced to disregard it as I have not given you formal notice in writing of any such intention.

"Until such time that I do give a formal letter, I consider myself as still being on the city payroll.

"The only way in which you can clarify this regrettable situation and dispense with my services on February 28, 1942, is by giving me a letter of discharge. Until that time, I will consider myself the city's legal service director and will carry out the duties of my office."

Locke maintained today, however, that Wolff would take over the duties of director Monday morning. He said he would not ask Crafton to remain on the job to acquaint Wolff with the duties or routine of the office, pointing out that Wolff had had previous experience on the job.

"I selected Wolff because he had had previous experience," Locke said, "so he won't have to learn the ropes."

If Crafton remains on the job after Feb. 28, as he says he intends to do unles sthe mayor notifies him he has been discharged, another question will arise.

Crafton this morning notified Kelley that he intended to be on the job after the first of the month, and expected to be considered as still on the city payroll.

Kelley probably will have to obtain a legal opinion from Wagner as to who holds the job officially.

Wolff, at the moment in peculiar situation, served as service-safety director for four years, from 1926 through 1920, under two mayors—the late J. Earle Ports, and A. F. Porter.

He has operated the Brunswick hotel since 1911 and he and Mrs. Wolff live there.

Wolff is a member of the Chamber of Commerce, the Kiwanis club and of all Masonic orders.

Speaker Sam Rayburn rang the school bell and swept the buildings to help pay for his education at East Texas Normal school.

DENTIST FOR 14 YEARS STRICKEN

Dr. Charles A. Ross Dies at Bucyrus Hospital.

BUCYRUS—A dentist here for the past 14 years, Dr. Charles A. Ross died in City hospital today. He had been in ill health for the past year.

Surviving are his widow, Myrtle; two sons, Charles, a student at Oberlin college, and George, at home; two brothers, Richard of Cleveland, and Lester of Lima, and two sisters, Mrs. John Leibfritz, and Mrs. Andy Bird, both of Mansfield.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Saturday at the Henderson-Lutz funeral home. Rev. C. D. Loehr, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of which he was a member, will officiate.

truck operated by Roy N. Wallet of Columbus Grove at the intersection of state routes 4 and 98 at the southern edge of the city.

Davis suffered a fractured skull. He was dead on arrival at Bucyrus City hospital. The truck driver was not held.

Ashland County Coroner Dr. George Emery said Eberly died of a fractured neck.

Camp told Sheriff Hammond he lost control of the machine on a curve. The car, the sheriff reported, struck a utility pole, skidded 200 feet in a ditch and rolled over several times.

Camp was treated at the hospital for lacerations and bruises. He was not held.

Eberly, a farmer, was born in Nashville, Holmes county. He had been a resident of Ashland county for the past 19 years. He was a member of Polk Methodist church.

Surviving are his widow, Emma, and a daughter, Mrs. Raymond Myers of Ashland.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday at the Denbow-Bear funeral home. Rev. Ira D. Rife of Jeromesville will officiate. Burial will be in Nashville cemetery.

Davis is survived by his widow, Esther and a child. His body was removed to Marion for funeral services and burial.

Not All Jap Tanks Got Through to Singapore

Here is evidence of the fierce though vain fight the British put up against the Japanese hordes which poured down Malaya to engulf Singapore. These Japanese tanks were put out of action during a battle. A tree has fallen across the tank in the foreground. Another tank, in the rear, burns. Picture was taken before the fall of Singapore.

edged that the invaders, striking down through lower Sumatra, had reached the narrow Sunda strait directly across from Java.

An N. E. I. communique said Dutch naval forces bombed Japanese storage yards near Oosthaven, which is the Dutch name for the port of Telok Betong, on a bay at Sumatra's southern tip. Sunda strait at that point is 50 miles wide.

Japanese warplanes roared over Java itself in the seventh successive day of intensive attacks, bombing the great Soerabaja naval base and airdromes in western Java. The toll at Soerabaja was listed as seven killed, 19 seriously wounded.

The Dutch communique also reported that fighting raged "with unabated fierceness" on the island of Celebes and acknowledged Japanese capture of Sinking in western Borneo and the tin-producing island of Bangka, off the east coast of lower Sumatra.

In the battle of Burma, a Reuters (British news agency) dispatch said fresh Chinese troops were streaming southward into the beleaguered British colony, ready to combat any Japanese thrust northward toward Mandalay, 375 miles above Rangoon.

London military quarters said advancing Chinese had already clashed with the Japanese in "patrol actions" in the northern Shan states of Burma.

While British imperial troops fought with their backs to the wall in a desperate attempt to save Rangoon, demolition squads started destroying vital installations. Black smoke rolled over the Burmese capital, and only charred ruins marked the site of a big oil refinery.

The German radio, quoting Tokyo dispatches, said that Rangoon was in flames and that Japanese troops were "before the gates" of the capital.

An RAF communique said 21 Japanese planes were shot down this morning in air battles over the Rangoon area.

The Netherlands East Indies, which also had used the scorched earth policy rigorously to minimize Japanese victories in outlying islands, were officially advised that beleaguered Java had a reasonable fighting chance.

"The time for destruction and withdrawal has now ended," Lieutenant-General Hubertus J. Van Mook said in a Batavia broadcast. "The time for holding out and attacking has come."

Van Mook told Java's 40,000,000 people that the Allied troops—including United States aerial squadrons—which are in Java "will remain and will be maintained through a regular stream of reinforcements."

Japanese forces invading Burma apparently were still being held at the Sittang river, with the closest some 60 miles from Rangoon, but the fighting of British and Indian troops appeared at best to be merely a delaying action and there was the possibility of a direct Japanese thrust across the Gulf of Martaban from the Moulmein area.

Japanese conquest of the southern zone would finally end the value of the Burma road as a war supply route to China—although this has already been discounted by trans-India transport arrangements—and open the war for a push north and west against the Shan states and India.

TALK CONTRACTS

U. S. Officials, Refrigeration Industry Heads Meet.

WASHINGTON — (U.P.) — War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson, apparently overruling the army and navy procurement sections, arranged a meeting today of government officials and representatives of the mechanical refrigerator industry to discuss war contracts.

The meeting will be held at Schenectady, N. Y., and W. S. Hammersley, head of the war production board's refrigerator section, will attend. The contract involves a large order for searchlights for the army.

The mechanical refrigerator industry has been ordered to stop production of civilian units after April 30 but no specific plans for its conversion to war production have been made.

Officials believed that enough war contracts would be available to keep at least 70 per cent of the refrigerator plants busy.

SUGGEST FAIR SITE AS CAMP

Federal Officials Would Use Grounds For Interment.

COLUMBUS — (U.P.) — State fair officials heard reports today that the federal government was considering use of the Ohio state fairgrounds as an internment camp for enemy aliens during the war.

The state board of agriculture is considering a proposal that the state fair be called off for the duration. A final decision will be made next month.

There are many buildings on the fairgrounds suitable for housing. It was pointed out that the state property would be suitable only as an internment camp or for storage purposes.

CLUB TO MEET

Auto Club Plans To Revise Constitution, By-Laws.

Members of the Richland County Automobile club will revise and rewrite the constitution and by-laws of the organization Tuesday, March 10 at 7 p. m. in the club offices at 66 North Mulberry street, Frank Beverstock, secretary, said today.

The organization was formed 22 years ago and this will be the first revision and approval given the by-laws since that time, he said.

MACARTHUR MEN STAGE COUNTER BLOW IN BATAN

Drive Jap Forces From Front Positions in Thrust at 'Preparations.'

Philippine island which the Japanese have seized, there is "desultory patrol action," the war department said, and the invaders have been reinforced by a detachment of marines.

In the Pacific war in the air, newly-arrived American army warplanes were delivering trip-hammer blows in the battle of Java after destroying since Dec. 7 nearly 300 Japanese planes and at least 24 ships—from Pearl Harbor to the Indian ocean.

The mounting tempo of the attacks indicated that both bombers and fighters are reaching the East Indies in steadily increasing numbers.

Officials refused to discuss the extent of the air reinforcements reaching the Dutch East Indies but said it was safe to assume they would play a still greater role in the struggle for the Pacific southwest.

President Roosevelt, in his radio speech Monday night, said a "large number" of American bombers and fighters already are in that war area and are in "daily contact with the enemy" as well as thousands of American troops.

The army warplanes, including flying fortresses with fast-firing cannon, apparently have taken a heavy toll of life among the Japanese invasion forces in addition to the destruction of ships and planes.

Of the 24 ships sunk by U. S. planes, 19 are listed in unofficial tabulations as transports and similar enemy supply vessels while two other transports are listed as "probably sunk" and about eight have been damaged in bombing attacks.

Of the nearly 300 planes and 24 enemy ships destroyed by the American army air forces thus far in the war a large part have fallen victims around the Dutch East Indies.

The air force's biggest victories have been scored against invasion fleets approaching Sumatra and Java, in the air over Bali, at the Japanese-held port of Balik Papan on the Borneo east coast and in the famous battle of Macassar straits.

Reach Indies Using Tiny Souvenir Map

BATAVIA—(INS)—The story of 17 American flyers who flew from the Philippines to The Netherlands Indies guided only by a tiny pictorial map on a souvenir cigaret case was told to Aneta news agency today.

The aviators, none of whom had ever made the flight before, made their escape from the Philippines aboard several American flying boats, the exact number of which cannot be revealed.

The cigaret case, memento of a peacetime visit to the Indies, was the possession of the pilot of the leading plane. His plane led the formation during the whole flight.

The map on the case showed only the bare outlines of the main islands, Sumatra, Borneo, Java, Celebes and New Guinea. The position of none of the more than a thousand smaller islands, identification of which has hitherto been considered essential to successful aerial navigation of the immense area, was not even indicated.

Jap Planes Fly Over Port Darwin

CANBERRA, Australia—(INS)—Japanese planes made a reconnaissance flight over the northern Australian base of Port Darwin and the surrounding area at noon today but dropped no bombs.

Announcement of the enemy reconnoitering expedition followed an official announcement of Australian aerial attacks on Jap positions at Rabaul, New Britain island, and on Timor island northwest of strategic Port Darwin.

An RAAF communique said bombers raided Rabaul, concentrating on buildings and grounded aircraft and that all their bombs dropped on the target area, causing large fires.

British Still Hold Flaming Rangoon

LONDON — (INS) — Burning, scorched Rangoon is still in the hands of British military forces, authorities in London declared today.

Declaring that the Burmese capital is "still held," they said there appears to be a "general pause" in the situation in Burma generally.

The Japanese, authorities declared, apparently are reorganizing their forces for further assaults against the British positions.

Meanwhile, great columns of smoke and flame were reported towering over strategic Rangoon as the British forces put the city to the torch in a vast "scorched earth" maneuver.

Amazing Cough Relief, Mixed In Your Kitchen

No Trouble. No Cooking. Saves Big Dollars.

Yes, ma'am, right in your own kitchen, you can easily mix a cough medicine that is a wonder for quick results, and gives you about four times as much for your money. And it's no trouble—a child could do it.

You'll need a syrup. Make it by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed.

Now get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, and pour it into a pint bottle. Then add your syrup. There you have a full pint of really remarkable medicine for coughs due to colds. It lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

And does it do the work! You'll say it beats anything you ever tried. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, and lets you rest at night.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

AIRPORT PLOTS OCEAN WEATHER

Bureau at LaGuardia Field Has New Technique For Forecasting Changes.

(By United Press)

NEW YORK — The weather bureau at La Guardia airport is working out a new technique for plotting atmospheric changes over the ocean in preparation for the possibility that events may cause curtailment, or even cessation, of reports now received on Atlantic weather from surface vessels.

At present, information on Atlantic weather is gleaned principally from radio reports made by surface ships to the civil aeronautic administration's trans-Atlantic radio state at La Guardia field. This information, which is made available in detail only to certain government bureaus and private agencies, contains complete data on wind speed and direction, barometer pressure, temperature and other factors. Most of these reports come from vessels flying the American flag.

A weather bureau official said that weather men are now utilizing their experience of the past year with reports received from the flying boats of Pan American airways, to build up a technique of forecasting by the use of information from airplane crews.

"If it should hapen that surface craft are forced to shut down their radios for fear of revealing their positions to raiders," the official said, "we will be able by using reports from patrol bombers, clippers and other aircraft to build up a picture of Atlantic ocean weather phenomena.

"Weather observers have long known that aircraft reports giving only basic cloud formations, temperatures and barometic pressure may be used to produce a reasonably accurate weather picture. During the past year, we have been able to build up a library of information on this method of forecasting, since we have had the oportunity of comparing forecasts based on airplane reports with actual conditions as reported from the surface."

He explained that a surface ship is a relatively stationery point from which to make an observation, while a fast-moving plane presents greater difficulties. He added that even though airplanes may also be forbidden in case of an emergency to use their radios, the relative shortness of the time that most planes are in the air would still permit accurate weather pictures to be compiled from reports made by crews after they have landed.

TEST HOSIERY FOR A THESIS

MADISON, Wis.—(UP)—Most women are guarding their hose like precious jewels these days, but six University of Wisconsin co-eds have abandoned socks for campus wear, and are giving their hose special endurance tests.

Jean Henkel, assistant in the home economics department, has been conducting the experiment since November to determine which kind of hose now available will wear the longest. The co-eds, selected because they walk a lot, are wearing mercerized cotton, nylon, and silk stockings an equal number of times, keeping a daily report chart on snags and runs.

Results of the study will be submitted for a Master's thesis. Miss Henkel explained, The girls follow detailed instructions for washing and general care, use the same type of soap powder, and note effects of high heels and oxfords. A certain number of "mends" are allowed, but so far the only casualties have been the silk hose.

STRIKE ENDS AT ASHLAND RUBBER PLANT

Production Is Resumed After Discharged Worker Reinstated.

ASHLAND — All workers returned to the Faultless Rubber company today following the settlement of a strike which was called Tuesday over the discharge of Harold Stafford.

Stafford, who was dismissed by the company Feb. 5 on grounds of negligence, was reinstated to his former position in the rubber wash room with full seniority. However, by terms of the agreement, he will not receive wages for the period he was unemployed.

Ninety per cent of the 315 employed in the factory are members of the Local 196, United Rubber Workers, which called the strike. Other workers cooperated with the union and during the "holiday" period watchmen and firemen were allowed in the plant for protection of factory machinery.

Warren D. Coss of this city, who won a fight with infantile paralysis through aid of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, has accepted a position as director of chapters of the southern region for the national organization. Last fall he took on the regional directorship temporarily and March 1 he will take up the duties permanently.

Stricken with the disease on Sept. 11, 1940, while a salesman for the Bessemer Cement company, Coss was taken to Warm Springs, Ga., for treatment. He left there April 7, 1941, having made recovery.

In his position as director he will have charge of chapters in 11 states, Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, and Texas. There are a thousand chapters located in these states. There are 2,200 chapters in the United States and five regional directors. The directors assist the various chapters in their districts with their problems and supervise drives to establish new chapters.

Business Operated By Earl Hillis Damaged By Water.

GALION—Two fire calls, one in the afternoon and one in the evening, were made by the Galion fire department Wednesday.

Considerable damage resulted to a tavern operated by Earl Hillis on the north side of Harding way east, near the Big Four railroad Wednesday evening.

Fire broke out in the attic about 7:30 p. m.

Water damage was considerable to the rear of the business concern, while an apartment above was damaged by smoke and some water. The property is owned by Mrs. P. M. Woods.

First call of the day came at 4:35 p. m. to the office of the Weithman Brothers, contractors, at 409 Kroft street. An overheated stove pipe burned part of the ceiling and siding of the building on the inside. Damage was slight.

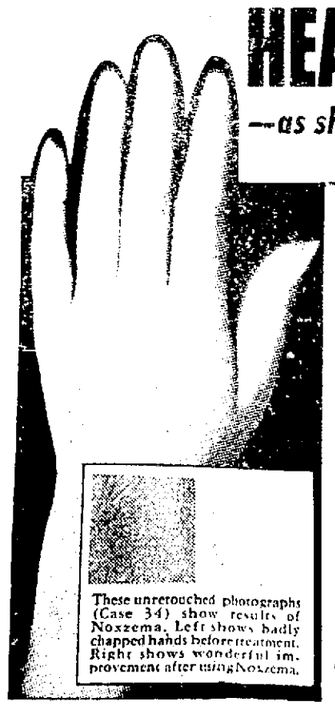
CHAPPED HANDS HEAL FASTER
—as shown by actual tests!



These unretouched photographs (Case 34) show results of Noxzema. Left shows badly chapped hands before treatment. Right shows wonderful improvement after using Noxzema.

If you're suffering from chapped hands, here's something you should know. Chapped hands are often more than mere roughened red skin. In severe cases marked soreness is evident—often the skin becomes so irritated that tiny "cuts" (cracks) develop.

That is why Noxzema has been so successful in treating chapped hands. For this famous preparation contains active ingredients which: 1st, quickly soothe burning, stinging soreness; 2nd, help soften dry, rough skin; 3rd, aid in healing the tiny skin "cuts."

SPECIAL TRIAL OFFER

Surveys indicate that scores of physicians, dentists and nurses use Noxzema for chapped hands. It not only brings soothing relief, but it's greaseless, too!

For a limited time you can get a generous 25¢ jar of Noxzema for only 19¢ (plus tax) at any drug or cosmetic counter. Get a jar today!

Report Bucyrian Embezzled Funds To Pay Employes

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)—Clarence Baldosser, manager of a chain five-and-ten cent store at Bucyrus, thought four of his women clerks were underpaid so he embezzled store funds in order to give them salary increases, a probation officer reported today.

Baldosser, 31, was named manager of the Kluga five-and-ten in Bucyrus last June. He was arrested in December and charged with embezzling $519.17 in store money.

Baldosser told the probation officer that he sent a little of the misappropriated money to his sick mother but most of it he gave to four women clerks in the form of "raises."

He said he intended to reimburse the money to the company from a $400 bonus he expected to receive at the end of the year.

After listening to the report today, Common Pleas Judge Samuel H. Silbert placed Baldosser on probation for three years and ordered him to pay back the money.

Skipper of Pollux

Commander Hugh W. Turney was in command of the Pollux, naval supply ship which with the destroyer Truxtun ran aground off the Newfoundland coast with heavy loss of life. Both ships broke up and sank almost immediately after grounding. Capt. Turney was reported safe.

THEATERS

Romantic Background.

"Smilin' Through," a romantic story combining both the past and the present, is the attraction at the Ritz. Jeanette MacDonald and Brian Aherne are starred and Gene Raymond and Ian Hunter are in the cast. "Federal Fugitives," with Neil Hamilton is the co-feature.

Broadway Comedy.

Eve Arden plays her familiar character of a broadwayite in "Sing For Your Supper," the Park attraction featuring Jinx Falkenburg and Charles Rogers. In her role of a sharp-tongued danceland hostess she teaches the tricks of taxi-dancing to a debutante. Jinx Falkenburg has the role of a singer in the same establishment who separates an orchestra from poverty. Bert Gordon, the "Mad Russian," is in the cast. "Siren of the South Seas," the second picture has Movita and William Hull

Musical Theme.

Alice Fay and Betty Grable top the cast in "Tin Pan Alley," opening at the Majestic today. Jack Oakie and John Payne are among the leading players. "The Cowboy and the Bandit" with Rex Lease," shares the bill

Air Drama.

A three-cornered romance involving a vivacious French-Canadian girl and two pilots lends interests to James Cagney's starring vehicle, "Captain of the Clouds," continuing at the Ohio. Brenda Marshall plays the girl and Cagney is one of the pilots. Filmed in Technicolor the production based on the exploits of the Royal Canadian Air Force and particularly the adventures of a group of Irish pilots from the Canadian northwoods presents one thrilling aerial scene after another. Alan Hale, Dennis Morgan and Reginald Gardiner are at the cast.

Backstage Story.

The story of a theatrical celebrity who climbed to fame on the continent is told in Loretta Young's "The Men In Her Life," showing at the Madison. Miss Young has the role of a ballet dancer who is loved by four men played by Conrad Veidt, Dean Jagger, John Shepperd and Otto Kruger. Veidt casts aside his usually villainous role to play the part of the dancer's teacher, a sympathetic character. "Four Jacks and a Jill," with Ray Bolger, Anne Shirley and June Havoc is the second attraction.

SUGAR BEETS TO GET STAR ROLE IN RATION PLAN

Much Harassed Industry Can Provide Quota For 80 Million People.

(Editor's Note: With each American household this year forced to cut its average sugar supply from 7¼ to 50 pounds, and each industry slashing its per capita use from 40 to 27 pounds, due to war rationing, International News Service has made a survey of the problems in the nation's sugar industry. Here is the data.)

* * *

By HAROLD HEROUX
(INS Staff Correspondent)

GREELEY, Colo.—America's long harassed sugar beet industry will come into its own in 1942 and will be able to meet the war-rationed needs of 80,000,000 persons.

The curtailed needs of the remainder of the nation's 130,000,000 persons will come from domestic, territorial and foreign cane sugar fields.

Vast supplies of sugar will be diverted to the United Nations.

The "second teaspoon" of sugar, now denied in restaurants, will go into a huge stockpile that will be converted to alcohol vitally needed in the nation's munition industry.

These facts came to light today in a survey of the sugar beet industry, as 100,000 beet farmers in 19 states from the Great Lakes to California, made plans for increased production. Planting will start early in April, said farmers' spokesmen at Greeley, which with Fort Collins and Sterling, Colo., and Scottsbluff, Neb., forms one of the richest beet areas in the nation.

In the past, when there were 100 pounds of sugar available each year for each person in the county, the sugar beet farmer fought bitterly for increased acreage allotments. But his fight was in vain, as the government did not want him to freeze out the sugar growers of the Phillippines, Hawaii, other territories and foreign lands, especially Cuba.

In maintaining the "good neighbor" policy, the domestic beet grower suffered.

Today, the lid is off as far as domestic acreage limitations are concerned. Uncle Sam, acknowledging the loss of 1,000,000 tons of sugar a year from the Philippines and half of the annual output from Hawaii, is anxious to produce every possible ounce of sugar at home.

Many of the nation's leading beet growers are going to increase their acreage as high as 35 per cent, possibly as high as 40 per cent, and on some farms it might still be greater. But U. S. Department of Agriculture experts warn that a 35 per cent increased acreage will not necessarily mean a 35 per cent increase yield of sugar. The experts point out that marginal soil must be used for the extra acres, cutting down the sugar yield.

A survey by International News Service of important factors in the sugar beet industry brought forth the following outlook:

Seed: plenty available, as the seed is now produced domestically.

Labor: beet growers, like all other farmers, recognize this as a problem but their spokesmen declare an adequate supply of labor will be available.

Mechanical devices: certain "spring-side" machines used in planting have been termed highly successful and tending to cut down hand labor.

Price: this is a major factor and growers this year have found it attractive. There have been early agreements on contracts with processors. All beet acreage is grown under contract.

Processing factories: there are 85 factories throughout the nation. It is stated that no additional factories can be built this year due to the "bottleneck of priorities." In the past, when the beet sugar industry was curtailed by government decree, the factories never reached maximum output. It is estimated the factories this year will be able to handle 33⅓ per cent more than last year's output.

AROUSE FLOW OF LIVER BILE

To Help Correct That "Half-Sick," "Tired," "All-Gone" Feeling.

Normally the liver should discharge about a quart of precious digestion-aiding juices a day. If it doesn't—a scanty flow—a slowing up may mean Sick Headaches, so-called Biliousness, Poor Digestion, with that half-sick, tired, all-gone feeling and most probably Constipation.

Probably all you need is a gentle excitant: just take a little daily dose of that world-famous Kruschen Salts—half a level teaspoon in a glass of hot or cold water about half an hour before breakfast. This helps to release the flow of bile with its gentle bowel action. Try Kruschen—a famous English formula—for 30 days to shake off that "run-down" feeling and get a real "lift." If you do not feel 100% better get your money back. Muir's Cut Rate Drug Store.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

GEN. JOHNSON: Uncovers Dynamite Near Bonneville Dam

By GEN. HIGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON — Will MacArthur and his army hold out like the Greeks at Marathon and have to be killed like caged animals in a trap?

There is little prospect of their relief in sufficient force to evacuate them, and knowing Douglas MacArthur well, I have little doubt that he will not surrender as long as there is a man left to serve a gun.

Gen. Johnson.

There is a very considerable opinion that he should be ordered out of there alone leaving the troops that have fought for him so well to surrender. That would put up to him a terrible choice and ordeal.

I think the president has too much humanity and affection for him to place such a burden upon him. He would be torn between his duty to obey orders and his flawless loyalty to his men. Such a decision would have to be made in his own heart.

I don't know for certain what it would be, but I would give odds that he would stay by his men—regardless of his soldierly respect for superior authority. I only know that I would hate to be the man who transmitted such an order. Mac knows how to swear as well as General Pershing.

It would not be the first time that he had such a trying choice. The first time was in driving the bonus marchers out of Washington. He did it in such a way that no one was hurt. He "ate his own smoke" and commanded the troops himself to take the onus off of any subordinate commander.

He has never, I think, told the true story while gossip said that it was his own action or that Secretary Hurley ordered it. The fact was that he was ordered to do that job by the president of the United States, as he might be ordered to leave Luzon in this case.

But the circumstances were very different. The bonus marchers were trespassers violating the laws.

These men are MacArthur's own men, who have shown their willingness to die for him. They have lifted him to a pinnacle of glory. Would be desert them? I think not.

Few generals have done that and gotten away with it. Napoleon deserted his army in Egypt. It might have ruined him, but he came home in time to seize the government, which with what else he proceeded to do, overshadowed his soldier's shame.

There are very few other instances and they invariably ruined the reputation of the man who did it. Such a thought could not find lodgment in MacArthur's heart.

Laying all this aside, the stand MacArthur is making is a national asset of first magnitude. These things automatically become military standards for a whole people below which it is a disgrace for other troops to fall.

The Alamo was such a high measure of undaunted American courage and faithfulness unto death that it had much to do with the many continuous victories of Zachary Taylor and Winfield Scott over Mexican armies against almost unbelievable odds.

No matter what happens to MacArthur, he has set an example that will be a military asset worth whole army corps to his country as long as the flag continues to fly. Let no one do anything to impair that glory.

SENATE READY TO PASS HUGE WAR FUND BILL

Fight Impends on Effort To Slash Appropriations For Non-Defense.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The senate today expects to pass unanimously a $32,762,737,900 war appropriation bill, but the enthusiasm with which congress votes war measures was tempered by conflict with the administration on other issues.

The senate "farm bloc" had overridden President Roosevelt's objections in passing the Bankhead resolution prohibiting sale of government-owned surplus crops at less than parity prices and an impending fight by the senate "economy bloc" to slash non-defense appropriations also was foreshadowed.

Sen. McKellar (D.), Tenn., in preparation for the oncoming battle, introduced a bill providing for transfer of federal employes who lose their jobs by curtailment or abolition of activities of bureaus.

The McKellar bill also proposed that if federal employes cannot be transferred to war agencies immediately, they shall retain a preferred status for a period of one year.

The $32,000,000,000 war bill carries more than $23,000,000,000 for the war department alone. It also provides $1,500,000,000 to step up merchant ship building and $5,400,000,000 for lend-lease purposes.

Appropriations committee leaders said they would give assurance to the senate that tremendous strides are being made in the production of war materials.

The Bankhead resolution prohibiting sale of more than $1,000,000,000 of government-held farm surpluses was sent to the house following passage by the senate by a vote of 50 to 23. While the house also is expected to pass it, informed senate sources said that the president would veto the measure.

Mr. Roosevelt used strong language in attacking the bill, assailing the "grasping for a few extra dollars in the name of farmers."

The house was to pass the second war powers bill, granting wide discretionary authority to the government by nightfall.

A joint senate-house conference was expected to agree on the final form of a bill which includes repeal of congressional pensions.

The huge electric sign atop the Mansfield Westinghouse plant, one of the largest in the nation, will be dark for the duration of the war to help conserve electric power. Officials at the plant here would say only that the sign, which has been dark for several nights, "has been turned off." In Pittsburgh, W. G. Marshall, vice president of the Westinghouse company, said signs on all Westinghouse plants and distributing headquarters will be shut off to effect a savings of more than 1,000,000 kilowatt hours per year.

Richard Krotz saved the Commercial Motor Freight company a brand new tire and wheel yesterday while walking along U. S. Route 42 near his home at the foot of Sandy hill. Instead of playing "finders, keepers" with the tire he found in a ditch he informed the state highway patrol who determined the owner from a stamp the freight company had placed on the rubber.

The Mansfield Community Players have been calling for some queer props for the forthcoming mystery-comedy, "Mr. and Mrs. North," but none more unusual than a corpse. Not a real corpse, of course, but just someone willing to play dead for about 30 minutes during the first act of the play. The part requires little more than lying motionless on the stage while finger prints are taken and photographs made. The Players will consider all applicants.

Florist Charles L. Kafer is sporting, but painfully, a REAL sunburn around Mansfield these days. His shaggy beard and the dark glasses he's wearing first attract one to his predicament. It seems that Kafer, trying out a new sun lamp, went to sleep while taking the "bath." He should have been under the lamp only five minutes, but when he awakened Kafer had been under it 40 minutes. A swollen face, too sore to shave, seared eyelids and a deep burn from face to hips resulted.

FBI SEARCHES JAP PROPERTY ALONG COAST

Finds Fireworks Cache That Could Be Used To Signal Enemy Planes.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — FBI agents systematically searching Japanese property on the west coast uncovered large caches of dynamite near the Bonneville dam in Oregon and at the powerful naval radio station on Bainbridge island in the state of Washington, it was revealed today.

More than 1,000 pieces of fireworks, including sky rockets and roman candles that could be used to signal Japanese planes in event of an air raid on the Pacific coast, also have been confiscated, it also was disclosed.

In addition, more than 80,000 rounds of ammunition have been taken away from the Japanese residents in Pacific coast states. Significantly, most of the seizures were made after Attorney General Francis Biddle had ordered all enemy aliens to surrender such equipment at police stations.

A survey of the results of the FBI activities undertaken after Attorney General Francis Biddle reported yesterday that 3,250 Japanese aliens had been apprehended since war broke out, also showed that two short wave radio sending sets and 207 short wave receivers capable of receiving messages from Japanese-mandated islands in the Pacific have been found. Altogether 5,151 enemy aliens—Japs, Italians and Germans—have been rounded up.

Japanese also were found in possession of two rolls of film showing American battleships and fortifications on the Pacific coast.

The careful compilation of FBI seizures, based on reports of individual raids announced at various times throughout the country, showed that 923 sticks of dynamite, 1,894 feet of dynamite fuse, and 1,827 dynamite caps had been hidden away by Nipponese but were uncovered by the federal agents.

According to one report, 21 sticks of dynamite and enough caps and fuse to blow up a section of the dam, were found near the Bonneville reservoir in Oregon. Forty pounds of dynamite were found near the Bainbridge island naval radio station.

The survey also indicated that the FBI, in cooperation with army authorities, searched more than 1,300 Japanese residences and establishments in the Far West, including headquarters of a Nipponese Black Dragon society and the home of 17 alien Japanese Shinto priests in Los Angeles. Membership lists of Japanese organizations which are expected to prove invaluable to FBI agents also were located.

EXPANDS WORK

Library To Give Book Service To Union Rural District.

Union Rural high school will have its library service expanded by the Mansfield Public library next week when the traveling library truck carrying 1,200 books starts paying fortnightly visits to the building.

The school heretofore had its library collection changed three times a year by the Mansfield branch and its number of books was limited to approximately 100 at one time. Union Rural makes the fifth school served by the truck which also visits Ontario, Lucas, Lexington and Butler.

Plymouth library today added 1,000 volumes to the Victory book campaign being waged throughout Richland county, according to Miss Lois MacKellar, Mansfield librarian and county campaign chairman. Mrs. W. C. McFadden, Plymouth librarian, was in charge of the collection in that vicinity.

TAKEN BY DEATH

Mrs. Cora Fairchild Was Former Mansfield Resident.

Mrs. Cora Fairchild, former Mansfield resident, died Tuesday night at the home of her daughter in Sylvania, O., friends in Mansfield had learned today. She was the widow of J. T. Fairchild, former teacher in the Mansfield schools. Mr. and Mrs. Fairchild left here about 16 years ago.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. Friday in Red Lion, Pa., and burial will be in the cemetery there.

SIX ARMY MEN DIE IN CRASH

26 Others Injured as Bus and Freight Train Collide In Snow Storm.

(By United Press)

ENID, Okla.—Six enlisted army men were killed early today and 26 were injured when the bus on which they were riding was struck by a Rock Island freight train near Enid, Okla., during a blinding snow storm.

Army authorities identified the dead as Pvt. Herbert J. Taylor, 42, Lake Kerr, Fla.; Pvt. Eugene L. Underwood, 23, Rogersville, Pa.; St. Eugene J. Sanders, 26, Yoakum, Tex.; Pvt. Vernon E. Ohnstad, 26, Georgetown, Minn.; Sgt. Robert W. Walker, 23, Bay City, Tex., and Pvt. Cyrill J. Minarcik, 21, Chicago.

Of the 26 injured, 13 were hospitalized. Two men were not expected to live, authorities said. They were Pvt. John H. Ludlun, 25, Battlecreek, Mich., and First Sgt. George H. Showalter, address unavailable.

Capt. C. W. Hammond said the men were returning to the base three and one-half miles southwest of Enid aboard an Enid transportation bus when the accident occurred shortly after 1 a. m.

GETS DWELLING CONTRACT

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A $736,400 contract for 250 pre-fabricated, demountable dwellings for war workers at Dayton, O., has been awarded the Weinstern Construction company of Akron, the federal works agency announced.

MEN'S DIVISION TO AID CIVIC MUSIC MEMBER DRIVE APRIL 20

Creation of a men's division which will contact men's organizations when the Mansfield Civic Music association launches its membership campaign April 20 to guarantee a concert season for the city in 1942-43 is one of the new phases designed by the association to sustain and enlarge its membership next year.

W. L. Miller, superintendent of the Mansfield public schools, will head the division as major, Mrs. D. O. Meese, membership chairman, announced today. The men's division makes a total of seven divisions in comparison to the six active heretofore.

Appointment of Mrs. Stanley Richardson as headquarters chairman was also announced by Mrs. Meese, who pointed out that this office carries with it a large share of the responsibilities of the campaign.

Other majors named by the chairmen were Mrs. Paul F. Cropper, who headed the membership drive for several seasons until this year; Miss Florence MacDonald, Mrs. E. D. Gibson, Miss Hester Robinson, Mrs. George Hall and Mrs. Thornton Moore.

An increase from five to seven captains to be named by each major will make it possible to extend the campaign to new subscribers this year, according to Mrs. Meese, since each major also selects a team of five workers.

Majors have been requested by Mrs. Meese to submit the names of their captains and teams by March 1 in anticipation of further plans for the drive. Representatives will also be appointed in neighobring communities, including Lucas, Loudonville, Galion and Plymouth.

The campaign begins with a dinner the night of April 20 in Grace Episcopal church. Mrs. Robert Jones has been named chairman of arrangements.

GETS 10 DAYS

Alimony Evader Sent To Jail On Contempt Charge.

A 47-year-old Mansfield man who was found guilty yesterday of misrepresenting his earnings to avoid payment of alimony was sentenced to 10 days in the county jail by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston who cited him for contempt of court.

Sent to jail was Emmett Marks, 47, of 298 West Sixth street. It was the third time he had been in court for failure to pay alimony since his wife, Mrs. Bernice Marks, brought an action against him last November.

Twice Marks told the court that he was working only one day a week and made hardly enough to pay his room rent. Then Judge Huston wrote to Marks' employer in Columbus and learned that he has earned an average of $210 a month since November. He had been ordered to pay his wife $10 a week.

DIES IN WEST

Former Butler Youth Stricken With Pneumonia in Arkansas.

BUTLER — Wendell C. Leiman, 28, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Leiman, died Wednesday in a hospital in Texarkana, Ark., of pneumonia.

Surviving are his parents; a sister, Mrs. Mary Alice Flenner of Lucas; three brothers, John of Camp Roberts, Calif., and Robert and Kenneth of Akron, and his grandfather, J. M. Statler of Butler.

The body will be brought here for funeral services and burial. Arrangements are incomplete.

FILE CLAIMS

Plymouth, Mansfield Residents Seek State Compensation.

Two suits had been filed today in Richland county common pleas court against the Ohio Industrial commission, seeking state compensation for the injury of two Richland county workmen allegedly while they were employed in industrial plants.

One action was brought by Mrs. Elizabeth Lybarger, Plymouth, widow of Orville J. Lybarger who died six years ago allegedly from injuries he received while employed by the Ohio Seamless Tube company at Shelby.

Mrs. Lybarger is represented by the law firms of Beam and Beam, Mansfield, and Moon and Price of Port Clinton.

Ciro Carboni, Mansfield, is the plaintiff in the second action in which he contends that he was disabled while lifting heavy castings at the Ohio Brass company plant.

Claims for compensation in both cases were refused previously on the grounds that the injuries were not directly the result of accidents which occurred while the men were on the job in industrial plants.

League of Women Voters Plan for Program Monday

Mansfield League of Women Voters is planning a double-header program for Monday which will be climaxed with an address by Author Louis Bromfield at an open meeting in the Chamber of Commerce assembly rooms at 7:30 p. m.

The meeting, open to both men and women, will follow a morning conference of the league board with two officers of the state organization, Mrs. C. C. Shively, president, and Mrs. F. C. Blake, chairman of government and its operation. Both officers live in Columbus.

Mrs. Thomas J. McDermott, president of the Mansfield league, has been informed that the visit of the state officers is in behalf of the state organization's efforts to enlist every member in volunteer war time service. Members throughout the state are being requested to sign cards indicating the hours of service they will be able to give.

Bromfield will speak on the subject, "The Bases for a Permanent Peace," at the evening meeting, the third in a series designed by the league to inform not only its own members but Mansfield club representatives at large regarding the workings of government and other pertinent topics.

DATES To Remember

FEB. 8-28—Enemy aliens must apply at postoffice for certificates of identification.

March 1—April 1—Opening and closing dates for obtaining 1942 automobile license tags.

March 15—Final day for income tax reports.

March 17—National draft lottery.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Sport Podge

by REX HESS

The American Bowling Congress, in a recent handout, reports that up to Aug. 1, 1941, the A. B. C. had awarded 2,485 belt buckles for 300 scores rolled under its jurisdiction.

Listing the abdominal jewelry awards under states and cities, the A. B. C. records under Ohio:

"Mansfield—1."

Is there not some error?

On the bulletin board at Colony bowling alleys appear the names of the following members of the Mansfield 300 club:

ART HILBORN
DUKE WEBER
BILL DONNELLAN
RALPH SCHAD
DALE CLECKNER

Count 'em. That makes six right there. And that ain't all. Art Hilborn has four 300's to his credit, Sonny Meder three and Bill Donnellan two a total of twelve 300's rolled on Mansfield alleys. One of Meder's was turned in after Aug. 1, but that still leaves 11.

* * *

This is all very confusing. But what puzzles me most is: If Art Hilborn has collected all his four belt buckles, and we know Sonny Meder got one for his 300 this winter, WHAT ARE THE REST OF YOU GUYS DOING TO KEEP YOUR PANTS UP?

Mansfield Moose women have been chortling all week over the hot streak that sent them into first place in Class D in the state women's bowling tournament at Lima last week-end with a 1919 total.

Now 1919 may not loom so large to you, but for this team, which includes three beginners in the gentle art of kegling, it was 209 PINS OVER THE TEAM AVERAGE.

And every gal on the team hit over her average in compiling that total!

Susan Jocha lit the fuse for this average-topping hot streak, rolling 75 pins over her accepted ceiling as she turned in a 384 total. Myrtle Clements' 337 total was 49 pins up in the stratosphere, and Ruth Roesch was 47 pins over her average with 449.

Marjorie Peppard was 31 pins over the top with her 319, and Pauline Shively with 430, exceeded her limit by seven.

"The gals we bowled against," they solemnly report, "were higher than kites. But even they could see, with half an eye, that we were way, way over our heads."

While the Moose women are leading the Class D tourney by only four pins, 1919 to 1915 for Kappa Delta Phi of Toledo, they have a fine chance of finishing high in the money as only six more teams are entered in this class.

One of them, rolling this week-end, is a Mansfield team, Jake Miller's, who own a higher average than the Moose, and stand a good chance of copping top honors if they also pitch over their pates.

Orange St. Cafe girls go to Lima this week-end to roll in Class A.

Colony alleys had an inter-city tourney over the past week-end that went unnoticed when Ohio Edison company keglers from Springfield and Youngstown picked Mansfield as a suitable halfway point for their alley brawl.

Twelve teams took over the lanes, with Springfield winning the match by only 80 pins. Springfield will meet Akron on the West Third street alleys next month.

* * *

I grieve for "Murph," yes indeed I do,
With his two-three, two-ten, and one-two-two.
(That 122 spoiled his 600, and cost him half-a-dozen packs of cigarets. Thank you Mr. Hanna.

Largest hegira of the season for Mansfield keglers comes this week-end when 50 or more Moose manipulators of the mineralite take wing Saturday morning for Ft. Wayne, Ind., and the national tournament of the lodge.

Most of them are going by train, and many are already complaining: "Only trouble with that train, it starts back home too early Sunday night."

Yes, we'd heard that the Hoosier hot spot hands out a hearty welcome to the visiting firemen.

Butler and Plymouth Favored for Finals

Two Teams Selected To Play In Bascom District Class B Joust

COUNTY cage fans wending their way to Mansfield senior high school gym and the annual Richland high school basketball tournament tonight will be looking for the dark-horse entries with an outside chance of upsetting the dope bucket and toppling the favored Butler Bulldogs and Plymouth Tigers.

There's no getting away from the fact that Butler, winner of the county league championship once more, is favored for to cop the tourney title, and second place Plymouth in the league race, is an even greater favorite to reach the finals.

Chief, and only purpose of the county tournament, is, of course, selection of the county's representatives for the district class "B" tournament next week at Bascom, O. And since two teams are to be picked from Richland county, the tournament will have reached its objective with the playing of Saturday afternoon's semi-final games.

* * *

Winners of those two games will go to Bascom. And with that objective reached, do you think the crowd will stay away Saturday night? It'll be back in greater numbers to see the battle for the tournament championship.

Butler will have a tougher way to go to reach the Bascom tourney than will Plymouth. The Bulldogs are in the tough bracket.

Opening game of the tourney tonight at 7:30 pits the Guy Van Nostrand's Bulldogs against their traditional rivals, the Bellville Blue Jays, and if you're looking for a dark-horse entry you might give the Birds more than a passing thought.

Hottest thing in the county they've been in the closing weeks of the league campaign. After a disastrous start, Bellville won four out of its last five league scraps, and dropped that one to Plymouth 35-39.

Bellville was tied for fourth place in the league with Lexington and Lucas, and dropping the now Class A Madison Rams from the picture, it means these three clubs were tied for third, just back of Plymouth.

* * *

If Butler gets by Bellville, the Bulldogs likely will take on Lexington, another third-place tie team, in the semi-finals, the Minutemen being favored in tonight's clash with the Indians from Union who finished sixth in the league campaign.

Plymouth takes on the other third-place tie club, Lucas, tonight, and if the Tigers can hurdle the Cubs, they should have clear sailing to the finals.

But Lucas comes to the tournament fresh from the only victory scored by a county team over Butler this season. Of course Butler had already won the league title, and the Bulldogs could have been treating themselves to a letdown, but the fact remains that the Cubs didn't roll over and play dead just because they were playing the champs. You needn't expect them to play dead tonight either.

The two teams tied for last place in the loop race, Shiloh and Ontario, make up the other half of the Plymouth bracket. But Ontario has shown itself capable of playing really good ball, as was evidenced in the Warriors' overtime victory over Mansfield high school's reserves. A long, long shot would be Ontario.

Cincinnati Trims Miami

Fires In Eight Points In Overtime To Cop Game.

(By Associated Press)

The University of Cincinnati fired eight points in a second overtime period to whip Miami university's basketball team 62 to 59 last night in the Bearcats' last game of the season.

Tied 50-50 at the end of the second half, the teams fought evenly to a 55-55 score in the first extra period. Then the Bearcats, led by sub Forward Russ Merten, moved out for keeps. Tom Stump of Miami topped the scorers with 21 points. The game was played at Cincinnati.

Extra height that helped them grab the ball off the backboard gave Muskingum's quintet a 48-42 win over Otterbein at Westerville. The score was 36 all with five minutes to play when Muskie Guard Bob Holtsclaw rifled two through the loop, and the lads from New Concord stayed out front after that.

John Carroll completed its season's Big Four competition by knocking off Western Reserve, 55 to 46, and winning the Cleveland title. Carroll led at the half 24-12.

The University of Toledo's Rockets rolled up their 20th victory of the season against two losses by beating Loyola university of Chicago, 59 to 50. Toledo's Bob Gerber was top point maker with 16.

Toledo Hopes for Garden Cage Bid

TOLEDO—(AP)—Toledo university's golden era of basketball ends next week, but it may bring the Rockets another chance at the national invitation tournament in Madison Square Garden before Ohio's all-time high scorer Bob Gerber and five other seniors call it a career.

Lanky Bob, the unorthodox shooter who needs glasses to help him see, was floored by a leg infection and on Tuesday took his first steps in nearly a week. As a result he couldn't maintain his 20-points-a-game season average. But he did stay around long enough to pitch in 16 points and run his record Ohio three-season total to 1,235.

Weems Hits 11 Strikes In Row

First Frame Spare Gives Him 290 Game.

Jim Weems rolled 11 straight strikes last night in the City "A" bowling league at Colony alleys, but he never had a chance for a perfect game, getting a spare in the first frame, and winding up with 290.

And he didn't get a 600 total, starting out with a sour 136 in the first game, and collecting 161 in the second for a 587.

Dale Cleckner rolled the league's high total with 634 on games of 202-238-194, and Art Hilborn had 632 on 212-233-187. Their two big games helped Bissman Birdie Brands to a 1041 game, but they dropped a 1-2 decision to Lutz Lumber who turned in games of 1022 and 1084.

* * *

A. Shepherd rolled 619, Al Letteker 605, Ray Friday 600, Fritz Vogel 603, and Orlie Grable 600.

BROWNS BUY HENS

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—Toledo of the American association became a wholly-owned farm club of the St. Louis Browns today. The Browns acquired the stock of President Waldo Shanks of Toledo and his associates to give them 100 per cent control. The price paid was not disclosed.

BOUDREAU SINGLES OUT WEATHERLY FOR PRAISE

CLEARWATER, Fla.—(AP)—Cleveland's infielders and outfielders had just finished their first workout when Manager Lou Boudreau remarked:

"I would like to single out Roy Weatherly for a word or two of comment. I never saw him looking better and his enthusiasm and general spirit before the workout and out there on the field was marvelous."

Roy was in Roger Peckinpaugh's doghouse several times last season.

Tygers Out For Revenge

Seek To Even Close Defeat By McKinley.

Mansfield high's sensational Tygers will be out for revenge tomorrow night when they tangle with Canton McKinley's high-stepping Bulldogs in the season's finale at Senior high gym.

Defeated in a close game at McKinley early in the season, when they were temporarily weakened by the loss of Jack Shiplet who was laid up with a charley horse, the Tygers believe they can twist the Bulldog's tail in this return battle.

They got the idea when they turned back mighty Massillon last week 46-40. The Tygers played inspired ball in that game, and they'll deed more of the same against McKinley.

* * *

Since meeting McKinley the first time, Mansfield has lost both of its regular guards, Shiplet by graduation, and Ken Krupp by a not-too-happy birthday which put him over the age limit for high school competition.

But they had no fault to find with the work of the two Joes, Altamonte and Romano to put in there for relief work.

McKinley comes to town with a record of 12 victories and three defeats. They lost to Massillon 36-36 and later won over the Tigers 38-35. For the second straight year they were defeated by Canton Timken, 38-41, and their other defeat was at the hands of Akron St. Vincent, 21-24.

* * *

Outstanding in their victory parade are two wins over Dover, who twice defeated Newark. They also took East Liverpool, another of the state's best teams this season.

Last Saturday night they bounced Alliance 49-36, with Forward Dale Haverstock ringing up 22 points on 11 buckets. McKinley led at the quarter 10-6, at the half 22-15, and at the third quarter 33-23.

Garver, center, tallied 11 points for McKinley. Parks, forward, three, Cook, guard, two, Wernert, guard two and Coleman center four.

Parks may not start tomorrow night's game, being bothered with a bum ankle, but latest word from Canton today was that he is able to play if needed. Eddie Coleman may get the nod at the forward post.

Burnham Named Purdue Mentor

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—(AP)—Elmer Burnham, who began his coaching experience on a high school job, is to be Purdue university's head football coach, and Guy (Red) Mackey, who's worked nowhere but at Purdue, its athletic director.

The trustees chose them to succeed Allen H. (Mal) Elward, effective Sunday. Burnham is head freshman coach and Mackey assistant varsity coach and administrative assistant to the athletic director.

Elward resigned the coaching job a week ago to re-enter the navy, in which he worked his way up to lieutenant (senior grade) in the World war. The board relieved him of the athletic directorship Jan. 22 but extended his coaching contract six months to Dec. 31, 1942.

Rooney, Lloyd Enter ABC Match

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Mickey Rooney and Harold Lloyd, Hollywood stars of the present and past, have entered the American Bowling congress tournament and will bowl as a doubles team.

* * *

Elmer Baumgarten, secretary of the ABC, announced today that the two screen favorites will probably arrive in Columbus with the Los Angeles delegation of 32 teams during ABC convention week of March 23 to 28.

* * *

Both stars have paid their entry fees and unless an unexpected shooting schedule or movie commitment develops for Mickey Rooney in the meantime, both keglers will be rolling 'em down the alleys at the Coliseum, Baumgarten said.

Simpson Wins Second City Bucket Crown

Defeats Appleseed By Same Score As In Previous Battle, 30 to 20

IT MUST BE TRUE, John Simpson 30, Johnny Appleseed 20.

For the second time this season Coach Bob DeHaven's cagers defeated Appleseed last night by that score, 30 to 20, before another gym-jammed crowd on the West Fourth street court.

Since the first 30-20 victory was scored on the Appleseed floor, and since the home team usually is accorded an initial advantage of five points on up, Appleseed's showing last night represented a definite improvement over that of the earlier tilt.

But there was small consolation in that fact for the Pioneers after they stepped out in the first quarter last night to give Simpson a slam-bang battle and even led at the end of the period 12-10.

* * *

From there on Appleseed was able to tally only three points in the second period, three in the third, and two in the fourth.

DeHaven's smooth-working Simpson quintet took a 16-15 lead at the half, and then won the game in the third period when they stepped the margin up to 27-18. At one time in the first quarter Appleseed had a lead of 11-8.

Blocky Mike Zivkoff led the attack for Simpson, dunking the globule for 17 points on eight buckets and one free toss, while Sauder, with 10 points for Appleseed, was hotter than hot in the first period, scoring eight of the Pioneers' first ten points.

Preliminary game between the reserve teams of the two schools saw Simpson edging to a 19-18 win by taking the lead in the last minute of play and stalling through the remainder of the game.

It was a wildly enthusiastic crowd, variously estimated from 1,000 to 1,200 fans, that packed the Simpson gym. At 7 o'clock when the prelim started, there wasn't a seat left in the place, and fans already were lined up in the small standing room at either end of the court.

Last night's victory meant the second straight city championship for Simpson, both won by taking the season's two regularly scheduled games.

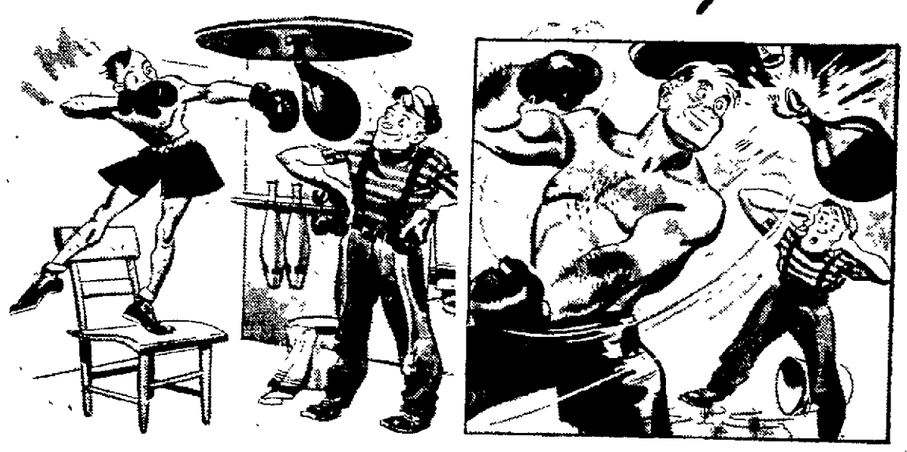
Meet the new champ!



1—Challenger! When IMPERIAL entered the ring, it was just a bantam, challenging hundreds of long-established whiskies—but it had plenty to win on! A glorious flavor, an incomparable smoothness—and experts predicted it would be a big-timer in no time!

2—First-round winner! And right they were! IMPERIAL'S growth was something amazing. It was the big-hit whiskey everywhere it was introduced. And such a hit that in one state, for instance, it hopped ahead of 332 best-sellers into first place and has stayed there ever since.

3—National champ! Meet the new flavor champ—try IMPERIAL! Taste why it's America's fastest-growing whiskey. Ask for IMPERIAL at your bar—or get a take-home bottle today. See for yourself why this grand whiskey literally leaped from challenger to champ!

Taste why it's America's fastest-growing whiskey!

IMPERIAL IS GREAT FOR 2 BIG REASONS!
"Flavor-peaked" for extra richness!
"Velveted" for extra smoothness!

Scout Likes High Hard One

Urges Young Hurlers To Develop Speed.

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Forget about the curve ball and develop terrific speed, says Scout Ira Thomas of the Philadelphia Athletics to all Youngsters who wish to become winning major league pitchers.

* * *

"If you haven't any curve when you get into the majors, don't worry. We'll teach you how to throw it, for that's the easiest part of the job," Thomas added.

* * *

Young America now is consumed with a desire to toss fast-breaking hooks and dippers, he aserted, and that's why big league pitchers capable of winning 25 or more games are at a premium. For the greatest prospects are ruined before they reach the majors. Their arms won't take the continued stram.

"Kid pitchers wan to learn how to throw a curve even before they can toddle," he went on. "In my day we youngsters concentrated on our fast ones."

"That's the reason why we had so many great pitchers like Addie Joss, Ed Walsh, Christy Mathewson, Mordecai Brown, Walter Johnson, Grover Alexander and a score of others.

Bob Feller, Thomas believes, is the last one comparable to the old time greats.

Thomas is starting his 31st season with the A's—Jimmy Dykes, Cy Perkins, Al Simmons, and Chick Galloway are a few of his discoveries—and his baseball memory is wealthy.

One of his most vivid is of "Hatpin Harry" O'Hagen, the first baseman credited with making the second unassisted triple play in organized baseball. Thomas opposed him in the minors.

"He was original if nothing else," Thomas recalls.

"He concealed a long hatpin in his field mitt and when you least expected it, he jabbed it into your side or leg. You'd jump pff the bag as if electric shock had hit you—and Hatpin Harry would put the ball on you—and out you were."

RED BIRDS, ALL STARS WIN SETTLEMENT TILTS

The Red Birds and the All Stars won their cage games in the Friendly House Intermediate White loop yesterday, the Birds downing the Goons, 43-36, and the All Stars trimming the Tigers, 37-21.

Gerbrich of the Birds, Johnson of the Goons and Wilson of the All Stars all tied for scoring honors, each accounting for 16 points.

FRISCH FINALLY ALLOWS PIRATES TO PLAY GOLF

EL CENTRO, Calif—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates who play golf in their leisure hours are bemoaning the fact they left their clubs home.

Manager Frankie Frisch, who for two years has opposed golfing by his players except on open dates, made the surprise announcement that his pitchers and catchers may shoot a few holes either before or after baseball practice.

HIGBE ENDS REVOLT ON HAVANA TRAINING

HAVANA—(AP)—"I think I'll win 30 games this year," said Pitcher Kirby Higbe, who arrived at the Brooklyn Dodgers camp yesterday and ended his one-man revolt against training in Havana. "But I would have been good for 40 if I had been allowed to remain in Miami."

Dixie Walker also arrived yesterday, leaving the Dodgers with only three absentees. Pitchers Whit Wyatt and Jack Kraus, both holdouts, and Catcher Herman Franks, who was permitted to report late.

New Baron Star

STAN SMITH

CLEVELAND—Just when the Cleveland Barons were resigned to his loss for the season, Stan Smith cleared up his passport difficulties and reported to Coach Bill Cook. The tricky center, from Coal Creek, B. C., purchased at the beginning of the year from the New York Rangers, last Sunday scored two goals as Cleveland whipped Pittsburgh, 5-3. Smith will be on the firing line against Providence at the arena Saturday night.

SERVIS UPSET

MIAMI, Fla.—(AP)—Bob Servis of Dayton, former Ohio amateur champion, was eliminated from the 18th annual Dixie amateur golf tournament yesterday in a surprise upset administered by William Y Stembler of Miami. The score was 3 and 2. Andy Augatis of Dayton advanced by whipping Bob McCullers of Miami, 3 and 2, and Frank Stranahan of Toledo took easy care of Jack Hathaway of Miami.

GOODMAN REPORTS TO RED CAMP IN HEALTH

TAMPA—(AP)—Ival Goodman, who spent much of last season on the bench because of injuries and illness, is getting around like a breath of spring and if he can hit homers like he did in 1939, one-third of Cincinnati's search for a slugging outfield may be over. Ten pounds heavier than in training Goody says he is confident of holding down right field this year.

NOTRE DAME CAGER LUCKY TO HAVE EYE

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—(AP)—Bob Rensberger, Notre Dame's star junior basketball guard, and one of the Irish's leading scorers, is lucky to have a shooting eye at all—good or bad.

Two years ago an artery was severed above his right eye in an automobile accident. He says he received the biggest thrill of his life when the bandages were removed and he was able to see.

Urges Easier Athletic Rules

Bill Bernlohr Hits Too Many Restrictions.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Capital university's athletic director believes colleges should let down the bars on eligibility for athletes to require only that students be physically fit and bona fide enrollees to compete on varsity teams.

"Why should any student who is permitted to remain in school be refused the opportunity to reap the benefits, physical, mental and social, which accrue from participation in intercollegiate athletics?" asked Bill Bernlohr, who also is basketball coach.

"The specific rule pertaining to scholarship has legislated against those students who have been found by their faculties to be delinquent in their studies."

The Capital mentor, who also favors removal of the ban on use of freshmen on varsity teams, added:

"It is the viewpoint of not a few of the country's outstanding physical educators, who look upon athletics as an important phase of general education, that elgibility rules of a prohibitive and restrictive nature are not justifiable."

The requirement that transfer students have a year of residence before becoming elgibile for varsity competition, Bernlohr said, was established when "the stealing of athletes was not uncommon." He expressed belief that few institutions now would resort to the practice.

Bernlohr said varsity competition by first year students was especially desirable "now that academic programs of most colleges are being accelerated to permit undergraduates to complete college work before entering military service."

RULE LEADS OTTERS

WESTERVILLE—(AP)—Otterbein college cagers handed invading Louisville University of Kentucky its second Ohio defeat in two days last night, 38 to 36. Three Kentuckians lost to Oberlin Friday night, 47 to 42. Dick Rule, Otterbein center, was the game's high scorer with 16 points.

MODERN PRISON WITHOUT WALL TESTS REFORM

California Institution For Most Promising Convicts.

(By United Press)

CHINO, Cal. — Chino prison, California's penitentiary without walls or guards, has its first class of convicts, while penologists over the nation are watching the results of the experiment.

The prison without walls was established in San Bernardino county as a place of confinement for "minimum security" prisoners whom the state wants to keep out of contact with more hardened "medium" and "maximum" security offenders.

Originally Chino was to have been only a prison farm. But as the plan progressed, the 1,300-acre farm site on which work started in 1937 grew to a 2,400-acre reservation with accommodations now for 440 prisoners and with facilities for future expansion to care for 1,500.

In seeking to make Chino as little like a prison as possible, the state board of prison directors and officials have introduced many innovations.

There are no walls, only a "riot" fence. Prisoners have a choice of foods in the cafeteria and choice of clothing. There are no guards. Their place is taken by work supervisors who do not wear uniforms.

The riot fence was built more to keep people out than to prevent prisoners from walking away if they are so disposed.

One of the greatest obstacles the state had to overcome was that of the opposition of residents of San Bernardino county who did not relish the idea of having a thousand or so convicts camped in their midst with nothing but a fence to keep them from straying. Eventually the residents were reconciled to the idea.

For rehabilitation, the farm has facilities for agriculture, dairy farming, poultry and hog raising, truck gardening, berry and field crops, all processes used in canning, quick freezing, meat preparation and an industrial training shop.

While the prisoners sleep in dormitories, nevertheless a block of 234 escape-proof cells is maintained for those who prove unworthy of the liberty they receive.

Under the present system for selecting men for the experiment—all prisoners of the state are now cleared through San Quentin, where they are classified as maximum, medium and minimum security men. Maximum men go to Folsom, prison and medium security men are held at San Quentin.

The minimum security men are then classified by the warden and prison psychiatrist and a list is recommended for rehabilitation at Chino.

The Chino warden and psychiatrist in turn examine this group and make a final choice.

According to George A. Briggs, prison director, all groups are composed roughly of five classifications as follows: incorrigibles, morons, the sexually unstable, psychopaths and the "run of the mill" generally.

At Chino, the first four groups are rejected and the experimental group is chosen from the best of the last category.

Kenyon Scudder, former warden of the federal prison at Chillicothe, O., was chosen as warden of the new institution.

BLEAK PLAINS OF NEBRASKA ONCE TORRID

Vast Temperature Change Traced In Huge Fossils.

(By United Press)

CHICAGO—Residents of the windswept Nebraskan prairies will find scant comfort this winter in a new theory that the area, where temperatures occasionally reach 10 below zero, boasted a tropical climate millions of years ago.

Dr. Alvin L. Lugn, geology professor of the University of Nebraska, advanced the new theory in the Journal of Geology, published by the University of Chicago Press

Lugn's article deals primarily with the origin of "Devil's corkscrews," huge spiral-shaped fossils found only in Sioux county, Neb

The "corkscrews" are ropy spirals found buried vertically, 6 to 8 feet in height. The stems are 2 to 10 inches in diameter. The "whorls," twisting either to right to left, vary from 8 to 10 inches in diameter.

Fossil skeletons, similar to modern beavers, frequently have been discovered inside the fossils.

Lugn's new theory regarding the formation of the spirals was reached by combining two previous theories.

One of the previous theories was that the corkscrews were merely fossilized parts of vines similar to liana plants flourishing in present day jungles. The other explained the spirals as fossils of burrows excavated by the rodents.

Lugn combined the two theories by assuming the decayed parts of spiral plants were burrowed out by the beaver-like animals and used as nests.

"The soft, pulpy swamp vegetation previously buried would rapidly rot away," Lugn said, "but the enclosing sands would harden and provide ready-made burrows for any rodent to occupy after digging out as much of the decayed corkscrew structure as he desired."

If the theory is correct, he said, the climate of the Nebraska territory at the time the formations originated was tropical. The corkscrews are believed to have been formed during the Miocene period from 30,000 000 to 15,000,000 years ago

The theory, he said, also explains why beavers and rodents of later ages did not live in spiral burrows, since "it is difficult to imagine that beavers suddenly lost the art of constructing spiral burrows but not at all difficult to explain the disappearance of the spiral plant in Nebraska with the advent of changing environmental conditions."

STARTS MOVE TO HAVE 'WHITE CANE' ORDINANCE IN MANSFIELD

After presenting white canes to the city's blind residents last night, the Mansfield Lions club today launched a program looking toward the enactment by city council of legislation requiring Mansfield traffic to halt when blind persons carrying white canes cross street intersections.

The movement is similar to those launched in hundreds of cities throughout the nation. They have resulted in ordinances to make the travel of blind persons less hazardous. In some states the "stop traffic" regulation is a state law.

Opening of the movement came at a dinner meeting at which 15 blind persons were guests of the Lions club at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Mayor W. J. Locke, Service-Safety Director C. M Crafton, Police Chief T M Bell and Sheriff Frank E Robinson were also guests

The canes were presented to James Lemley, president of the Lamplighters club by Paul A Hoffman, Salvation Army adjutant and Mayor Locke

At the conclusion of this brief ceremony, A. H. Fankhauser, club president, told the mayor and other public officials present, that the Lions club would receive a copy of the Detroit, Mich., "white cane" ordinance soon and that it would be presented to city officials here as a pattern for adoption of similar regulations for Mansfield.

"We feel that it is a worthwhile cause, and we believe that when the matter is given consideration by city council, those city officials will feel likewise," Fankhauser said.

As a feature of last night's meeting, George Campbell of Cleveland, who was born blind 22 years ago and regained his sight four years ago through a series of surgical operations, gave a talk.

Emerging from 18 years of "grey shadows and darkness" into normal life is just like being reborn, Campbell told his listeners.

"I look upon it as having two birthdays, one when I was born 22 years ago and the other when I was able to see for the first time four years ago"

His own mother's face "was the most beautiful to me" Campbell related, adding that color and its combinations of beauty were the next most interesting of the "hundreds of things that I was able to see and didn't know about until the grey shadows and darkness were lifted"

A plea for all to guard their eyesight accompanied his talk.

Last night's program was arranged by Ray Beal and the committee assisting him included Charles L. Kafer, J. A. McDermid and Adjutant Hoffman.

cruiser, added that "it is possible that one of the destroyers escorting the enemy cruiser was also hit by torpedo"

Despite the blows to the two battleships and the cruiser, the spokesman warned today that the United States and Britain "may be near the beginning of a new period of (surface) raider activity, both German and Japanese," after nearly a year of no mercantile losses from such craft

A special bulletin from Adolf Hitler's high command asserted that Nazi U-boats had sunk seven ships totaling 52-000 tons from a strongly-escorted convoy in the Atlantic and seriously damaged six other ships.

Losses out of convoys, the particular safeguard against submarine attacks, are just under one-half of one per cent of the cargo ships involved, he said. The trend of losses, however, has been seriously affected by the concentration of German U-boats off the American coast, he added.

Enumerates the 'Four Horsemen of War Panic'

HARRISBURG —(INS)— Rumors, threats, fatigue and malnutrition are the "four horsemen of war panic," according to Dr. Charles Burlingame, psychiatrist.

Dr Burlingame told delegates to the Second Pennsylvania Health Institute at Harrisburg that it was of "primary importance that the public become acquainted with the implications of psychological warfare: what they mean, what can be done to check them."

"Mental health today is a national problem with national fighting power the stake," he declared.

Fatigue and malnutrition, he added, have been allowed to "grow up until they have become the two most powerful fifth columnists in the country."

"Pessimism, forebodings, gloom, fear, inefficiency, and all other earmarks of the neurosis flourish in those who are not properly nourished," Dr. Burlingame said.

"These are the people who are fertile soil for the seeds of foreign propaganda—these are the people who listen and succumb to the dictator's weapons of threat and rumor."

WITH REGARD TO A CARD OF THANKS

Very often a Card of Thanks in The News-Journal meets a need which can hardly be solved in any other way. Not only is it a gracious expression of gratitude to those who have sent floral tributes, but also courteously acknowledges the service and kindness of the many to whom a personal note of thanks cannot well be mailed, or whose names or addresses are not known.
A "Card of Thanks" can now be arranged by telephone: Dial 4251-6, ask for Miss Lane or Miss Stone, either will be glad to render whatever service and advice you need.

5-ROOM modern home, in suburbs, $3500, 500 down, lot 80x240. New homes from $5200 up. Hunt Realtor, 1875-6. Res. 4688-6. (S-tf)

EASY LIVING
This small Woodland home was designed to give much comfort with a minimum of effort. The house sets well back from the street on a 63x150 lot. It has a comfortable combination living and dining room, attractive kitchen and lavatory on the first floor. Three bedrooms (one quite large) and glass bath on the second floor. The woodwork is beautifully finished in enamel and all rooms are tastefully papered. An automatic water heater, air conditioning gas furnace, copper pipes are other features. This is probably your last chance to get a house of this character until the war is over.

GET ULTRA-VIOLET RAYS

BERKELEY, Cal.—(U.P.)—To make every hog count for national defense in 1942, California growers now separate new-born pigs from their mother a few hours after birth and bring them up under ultra-violet ray lamps. This prevents the sow from rolling over and destroying the young porkers.

MANNA FROM HEAVEN

EL CENTRO, Cal.—(U.P.)—Ducks are getting all the breaks as a result of war. Formerly they were kept from eating crops by revolving lights that swept the fields. Defense regulations prohibit the lights now and the ducks are having a Roman holiday in Imperial Valley.

MANY REACH, BUT FEW HIT HIGHER SPOT

Westinghouse Listed Among Stocks Getting Early Lift on Board.

NEW YORK —(AP)— Leading stocks reached for moderately higher levels in today's market although many issues had difficulty in registering even slight progress.

Given an early lift were Bethlehem, General Motors, American Telephone, Western Union, Great Northern, Chesapeake & Ohio, Montgomery Ward, Douglas Aircraft, Sperry, Westinghouse, General Electric, Du Pont and International Nickel.

Hesitant were U. S. Steel, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, N. Y. Central, Southern Pacific, American Smelting and Consolidated Edison.

Bullish forces found nothing much in the war news to stimulate bidding and many potential buyers clung to neutral territory pending more light on forthcoming tax proposals which, it was explained, would put serious dents in corporate as well as individual incmes.

Some market comfort was derived from the action of the office of price administration in boosting rations of new and retreaded automobile tires for March. Under the latest decree next month's quotas will permit distribution of 471,311 new and retreaded tires compared with 236,813 in February.

by German artillery, mortar and machine-gun crews.

Stockholm reports indicated 100,000 Germans might be entrapped.

A Russian pincers also was declared in Stockholm to be closing upon the Moscow-Smolensk railway about 180 miles west of Moscow—with Soviet armies moving south from Dorogobuzh and south from Bely. Bases 50 miles apart—in an encirclement of Germans clinging to the Rzhevyazma area.

The southern Donets basin was reported by the Moscow radio to be a scene of violent fighting in which 6,000 Germans have died.

German submarines, credited in Washington with having attacked 45 ships in American coastal waters from Jan. 1 to Feb. 23, chalked up another victim in the 5,685-ton British tanker La Carriere.

She sank after being torpedoed late Tuesday night in the Caribbean 75 miles south of Puerto Rico. Four of her crew were killed. Twenty-three survivors landed yesterday at Guanica, Puerto Rico.

Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's new lord privy seal, was acclaimed by London newspapers for a declaration that the government would clamp down soon on sports events and other diversions as inconsistent with "solid and serious" work toward victory.

The Sketch said: "Here is a new voice, a stimulating voice."

The Germans announced that British planes dropped high explosives and incendiaries at some places on the German coast in the night, including the Port of Kiel.

DNB, German news agency, insisted "there was no military damage."

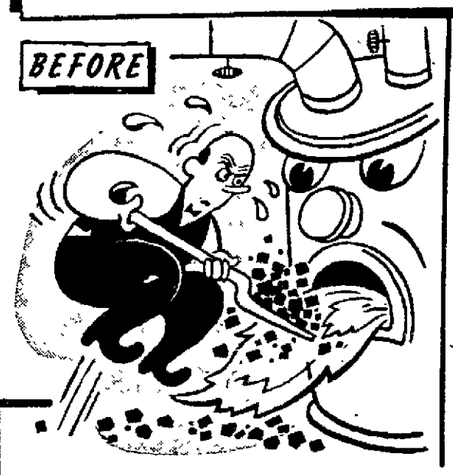
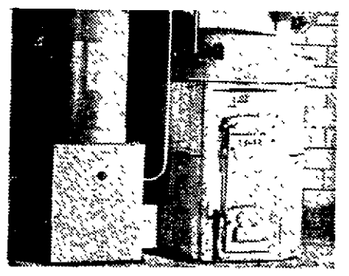
"FATHER'S LOST HIS DOUBLE CHINS
FEEDING FIRES FROM COAL BINS;
BUT NOW THEY'RE COMING BACK ONCE MORE
'CAUSE TENDING FURNACE IS NO CHORE"
Reddy Kilowatt
Your Electrical Servant



TENDING FURNACE is not only no chore any more, now that Father has installed automatic heat, but the new heating system is actually a help to Uncle Sam's war effort. In the first place, Father is saving money on his fuel bills, and he's buying War Bonds with the savings. Secondly, drafts have been eliminated; "Up-and-down" temperatures—rooms too hot one minute and too cold the next—have been eliminated; and there is more moisture in the air. All these benefits mean that the family is healthier. No one has had a cold this winter. Father hasn't missed a day at the factory, and saved man-hours mean more war production. Finally, Mother is saving money on cleaning bills. Walls, furniture and furnishings aren't nearly as dusty as they used to be. She has more time for Red Cross knitting. You, too, can enjoy these benefits of automatic home heating. A modern coal stoker, or an automatic gas or oil furnace, with a blower-filter unit will give them to you. Find out now, how inexpensive automatic heat can be in your home.



The picture at the right illustrates how compactly a blower-filter unit can be added to your present heating system.
